Section 1480. If no homestead has been selected and recorded prior to the death of the decedent, or in case the homestead was selected by the survivor out of the separate property of the decedent, the decedent not having joined therein, the court must set apart and cause to be recorded a homestead of the value of five thousand dollars for the use of the surviving spouse and the minor children, or, if there is no surviving spouse, then for the use of the minor children, or if there is no minor child, then for the surviving spouse, out of the community property, or if there is no community property, then out of the separate property of the decedent. Such order may be made upon petition of any of the parties entitled, and upon notice of not less than ten days, given in such manner as the court may direct. Upon the hearing, any person interested in the estate may appear and contest the application. If it appears that the petitioners are entitled to have a homestead so set apart to them, the court must designate the land from which the same is to be taken, and must appoint three appraisers to appraise and admeasure a homestead therefrom. The appraisers must proceed in the manner provided in the preceding sections of this article, and their report may be confirmed or rejected as therein provided, and, upon confirmation of the report, the court must set apart the homestead so selected to the persons entitled thereto. If such homestead was selected from the separate property of the decedent, the court can only set it apart for a limited period, to be designated in the order, and, subject to such homestead right, the property remains subject to administration.

SEC. 354. A new section is hereby added to said code, to be numbered fourteen hundred and eighty-one, and to read as follows:

Section 1481. If there are subsisting liens or incumbrances on a homestead, whether selected prior to the death of the decedent or thereafter by the court, the claims secured thereby must be presented and allowed as other claims against the estate; provided, the executor or administrator, or any person interested in such homestead, does, in writing, at least ten days before the expiration of the time for the presentation of claims, notify the holder of such claim to present it. In the absence of such notice the holder of such lien may maintain an action for its enforcement as authorized in section fifteen hundred. If the funds of the estate are adequate to pay all claims against the estate, the claims so secured must be paid out of such funds. If the funds of the estate are not sufficient for that purpose, the claims so secured must be paid proportionately with other claims allowed, and the liens or incumbrances on the homestead can only be enforced against the homestead for any deficiency remaining after such payment.

SEC. 355. A new section is hereby added to said code, to be numbered fourteen hundred and eighty-two, and to read as follows:

Section 1482. Persons succeeding, by purchase or otherwise, to the interests, rights, and title of successors to homesteads, or of persons entitled to have homesteads set apart to them, as in this chapter provided, are entitled to the same rights and benefits as those conferred by this chapter on the persons whose interests they have acquired.

SEC. 356. A new section is hereby added to said code, to be numbered fourteen hundred and eighty-three, and to read as follows:

Section 1483. The costs of all proceedings provided for in this chapter must be paid out of the estate as expenses of administration.

SEC. 357. A new section is hereby added to said code, to be numbered fourteen hundred and eighty-four, and to read as follows:

Section 1484. A certified copy of every final order made in pursuance of this article, by which property is set apart or a sale confirmed, must be recorded in the office of the recorder of the county where the homestead property is situated.

SEC. 358. Section fourteen hundred and eighty-five of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 359. Section fourteen hundred and eighty-six of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 360. Section fourteen hundred and ninety of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1490. Within ten days after the issuing of letters testamentary or of administration, the executor or administrator must cause to be published, in some newspaper published in the county, if there is one, if not, then in such newspaper as may be designated by the court, a notice to the creditors of the decedent, requiring all persons having claims against him to present them to the clerk, at his office, within a time specified in the notice; which time must be ten months after the date of the notice, when the value of the estate, as set forth in the order appointing the executor or administrator, exceeds ten thousand dollars, and four months when such value does not exceed ten thousand dollars. Such notice shall be published once a week for four weeks, and the court or judge may also direct additional notice by publication or posting. The first publication of the notice must be had within ten days after the date of the notice. The notice must be substantially in the following form:

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

In the matter of the estate of ———, deceased:

Notice is hereby given to the creditors of, and all persons having claims against, the above named deceased, to present them within ——— months after the date of this notice, to the county clerk of the county (or city and county) of ———, State of California, at his office in the city (or town) of ———.

Dated ———

_____,
Executor (or administrator) of the estate of ———.

SEC. 361. Section fourteen hundred and ninety-one of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1491. Upon receiving any claim, the clerk must file the same, and immediately make an entry of such filing on the register of the court, stating the name of the claimant and the amount of the claim. Every claim must have indorsed thereon by the claimant a statement of the place to which notices to him concerning such claim may be addressed.

SEC. 362. Section fourteen hundred and ninety-two of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1492. Upon the completion of the publication, or of publication and posting, of such notice, a copy thereof, with an affidavit of due publication, or of publication and posting, must be filed. At any time after the expiration of the time for the presentation of claims, the court may, and upon application of any party interested, must, after such notice as the court may direct, not less than five days, make a decree showing that due notice to creditors has been given; which decree, when entered, is conclusive evidence that such notice has been given.

SEC. 363. Section fourteen hundred and ninety-four of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1494. Every claim which is due when presented must be supported by the affidavit of the claimant, or some one in his behalf, that the amount is justly due, that no payments have been made thereon which are not credited, and that there are no offsets to the same to the knowledge of the affiant. If the claim is not due when presented, the affidavit, instead of stating that the amount is justly due, must state that the amount thereof will justly become due at a time therein stated, and, in other respects, must be such as is required for a claim which is due. If the claim is contingent, the particulars thereof must be stated and the claim must be supported by the affidavit of the claimant, or some one in his behalf, that the particulars so stated are true, and that there are no offsets, absolute or contingent, to the same, not disclosed in such statement of particulars, to the knowledge of the affiant. When the affidavit is made by a person other than the claimant, he must set forth in the affidavit the reason why it is not made by the claimant.

SEC. 364. Section fourteen hundred and ninety-five of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1495. Any judge of the superior court may present a claim against the estate of a decedent, and if the executor or administrator allows the claim, he must in writing designate some other judge of the superior court of the same or an adjoining county, who, upon the presentation of such claim to him, is vested with power to allow or reject it, and the judge presenting such claim, in case of its rejection by the executor or administrator, or by such judge as shall have acted upon it, has the same right to sue in a proper court for its recovery as other persons have when their claims against an estate are rejected.

SEC. 365. Section fourteen hundred and ninety-six of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1496. At any time after the filing of a claim, the executor or administrator may allow the same, in whole or in part, or reject the same. Such allowance or rejection must be in writing and filed with the clerk, and the clerk upon filing the same, must immediately note the same in the register, and mail a notice thereof to the claimant at the place designated on the claim. If the claim is allowed by the executor or administrator, it must be presented to the judge of the court for his approval, who must indorse upon it his allowance or rejection, and the clerk must immediately note such allowance or rejection upon the register, and mail notice thereof to the claimant at the address designated on the claim. If the executor or administrator refuses or neglects, for the period of ten days after the filing of the claim, to allow or reject the same, or if the judge refuses or neglects, for the period of ten days after the claim has been presented to him, to indorse his allowance or rejection thereon, such refusal or neglect may, at the option of the claimant, be deemed equivalent to a rejection on the tenth day. Any claim presented before the expiration of the time limited in the notice for the presentation of claims is presented in time, whether acted upon within that period or not.

SEC. 366. Section fourteen hundred and ninety-seven of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1497. Whenever a claim has been allowed by the judge as herein provided, it must thereafter be ranked among the acknowledged debts of the estate, to be paid in due course of administration. If the claim is founded on a bond, bill, note, or any other instrument, a copy of such instrument must accompany the claim, and the original instrument must be exhibited, if demanded, unless it is lost or destroyed, in which case the claimant must accompany his claim by his affidavit, containing a copy or particular description of such instrument, and stating its loss or destruction. If the claim, or any part thereof, is secured by a mortgage or other lien which has been recorded in the office of the recorder of the county in which the property affected by it is situated, it is sufficient to describe the mortgage or lien, and refer to the date, volume, and page of its record. If, in any case, the claimant has left any original voucher in the hands of the executor or administrator, or suffered the same to be filed in court, he may withdraw the same when a copy thereof has been already, or is then, attached to his claim.

SEC. 367. Section fourteen hundred and ninety-eight of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1498. When a claim is rejected either by the executor or administrator, or a judge of the superior court, the holder must bring suit in the proper court against the executor or administrator within three months after the date of its rejection, otherwise the claim is forever barred. If after the allowance of a claim by the judge, such allowance is wholly or partly vacated or revoked, the claimant is entitled, within three months after receiving written notice of such action, to sue on his claim in the same manner and with like effect as if it had originally been rejected.

SEC. 368. Section fourteen hundred and ninety-nine of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1499. No claim must be allowed by the executor or administrator, or by a judge of the superior court, which is barred by the statute of limitations. When a claim is presented to a judge for his allowance, he may, in his discretion, examine the claimant and others on oath, and hear any legal evidence touching the validity of the claim. No claim against any estate, which has been presented and allowed, is affected by the statute of limitations pending the proceedings for the settlement of the estate.

SEC. 369. Section fifteen hundred of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1500. No holder of any claim against an estate can maintain an action thereon, unless the claim is first presented as herein required, except in the following case: An action may be brought by any holder of a mortgage or lien to enforce the same against the property of the estate subject thereto, where all recourse against any other property of the estate is expressly waived in the complaint; but no counsel fees can be recovered in such action unless such claim is so presented.

SEC. 370. Section fifteen hundred and two of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1502. If an action is pending against the decedent at the time of his death, the plaintiff must in like manner present his claim for allowance or rejection, authenticated as required in other cases; and no recovery can be had in the action without such presentation.

SEC. 371. Section fifteen hundred and three of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1503. Whenever an executor or administrator or a judge is willing to allow a claim in part, he must state in his notice or indorsement the amount for which he allows it. If the claimant refuses to accept the amount allowed in full satisfaction of his claim, he may bring an action thereon, as provided in section fourteen hundred and ninety-eight; but in that event such allowance must be deemed to have been withdrawn, and the claimant is entitled to receive upon the claim only such amount as he may be awarded by the judgment in such action. If he fails to recover a greater amount than that so offered to be allowed, he is not entitled to recover costs.

SEC. 372. Section fifteen hundred and four of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1504. A judgment rendered against an executor or administrator, upon any claim, whether due or to become due, absolute or contingent, for money against the estate of his testator or intestate, only establishes the claim in the same manner as if it had been allowed by the executor or administrator and the judge; and the judgment must be that the executor or administrator pay, in due course of administration, the amount ascertained to be due. A certified transcript of the original docket of the judgment must be filed among the papers of the estate in court. No execution must issue upon such judgment, nor does it create any lien upon the property of the estate, or give to the judgment creditor any priority of payment.

SEC. 373. Section fifteen hundred and five of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1505. When any judgment has been rendered for or against the testator or intestate in his lifetime, no execution must issue thereon after his death, except as provided in section six hundred and eighty-six. A judgment against the decedent for the recovery of money must be presented like any other claim. If execution is actually levied upon any property of the decedent before his death, the same may be sold for the satisfaction thereof; and the officer making the sale must account to the executor or administrator for any surplus in his hands. A judgment creditor having a judgment which was rendered against the testator or intestate in his lifetime, may redeem any real estate of the decedent from any sale under foreclosure or execution, in like manner and with like effect as if the judgment debtor were still living.

SEC. 374. Section fifteen hundred and seven of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1507. If the executor or administrator doubts the correctness of any claim presented to him, he may enter into an agreement in writing, with the claimant, to refer the matter in controversy to some disinterested person, to be approved by the superior court, or a judge thereof. Upon filing the agreement and approval of such court or judge, in the office of the clerk of the court for the county in which the letters testamentary or of administration were granted, the clerk must enter a minute of the order referring the matter in controversy to the person so selected; and the report of the referee, if confirmed, establishes or rejects the claim the same as if it had been allowed or rejected by the executor or administrator and judge. If the parties consent, they may refer the matter in controversy to the court, and the court must thereupon hear and decide the same, and allow or reject the claim in the same manner as if the same had been allowed or rejected in the first instance by the executor or administrator.

SEC. 375. Section fifteen hundred and nine of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 376. Section fifteen hundred and ten of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1510. If any executor or administrator is a creditor of the decedent, his claim duly authenticated by affidavit must be presented for allowance or rejection to the judge, and its allowance by the judge is the only allowance required. If, however, the judge rejects the claim, action thereon may be had against the estate by the claimant, and summons must be served upon the judge, who may appoint an attorney, at the expense of the estate, to defend the action. If the claimant recovers no judgment, he must pay all costs, including defendant's reasonable attorney's fees, to be fixed by the court.

SEC. 377. Section fifteen hundred and twelve of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 378. Section fifteen hundred and eighteen of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1518. All petitions for orders of sale must be in writing, setting forth the facts showing the sale to be necessary, and, upon the hearing, any person interested in the estate may file his written objections, which must be heard and determined. A failure to set forth the facts showing the sale to be necessary does not invalidate the subsequent proceedings, if the general facts showing the necessity are stated in the order directing the sale.

SEC. 379. Section fifteen hundred and twenty-two of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1522. At any time after receiving letters, the executor, administrator, special administrator, or any person interested in the estate, may apply to the court or judge and obtain an order to sell perishable and other personal property likely to depreciate in value, or which will incur loss or expense by being kept, and so much other personal property as may be necessary to pay the allowance made to the family of the decedent. The order for the sale may be made without notice; but the executor, administrator, or special administrator, is responsible for the property, unless, after making a sworn return, and on a proper showing, the court approves the sale.

SEC. 380. Section fifteen hundred and twenty-four of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1524. Partnership interests belonging to any estate by virtue of any partnership formerly existing, interests in personal property pledged, and choses in action, may be sold in the same manner as other personal property, when it appears to be for the best interest of the estate. Before confirming the sale of any partnership interest, whether made to the surviving partner or to any other person, the court or judge must carefully inquire into the condition of the partnership affairs, and must examine the surviving partner, if in the county and able to be present in court; and if out of the county and unable to be present in court, then his testimony must be taken in such manner as may be directed by the court or judge.

SEC. 381. A new section is hereby added to said code, to be numbered fifteen hundred and twenty-seven, to read as follows:

Section 1527. Whenever it appears to the court, on any hearing of an application for the sale of real property, that it is for the interest of the estate that personal property of the estate, or some part of such property, be first sold, the court may decree the sale of such personal property, or any part of it, and the sale thereof must be conducted in the same manner as if the application had been made for the sale of such personal property in the first instance.

SEC. 382. Section fifteen hundred and thirty-seven of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1537. To obtain such order for the sale of real property, he must present a verified petition to the superior court, or a judge thereof, setting forth the amount of the personal estate that has come to his hands, and how much thereof, if any, remains undisposed of; the debts outstanding against the decedent, so far as can be ascertained or estimated; the amount due upon the family allowance, or that will be due after the same has been in force for one year; the debts, expenses, and charges of administration already accrued, and an estimate of what will or may accrue during the administration; a general description of all the real property of which the decedent died seized, or in which he had any interest, or in which the estate has acquired any interest, and the condition and value thereof, and whether the same is community or separate property; the names of the legatees and devisees, if any, and the heirs of the deceased, so far as known to the petitioner; and if said order for sale of real estate is petitioned for on the ground that it is for the advantage, benefit, and best interests of the estate and those interested therein that a sale be made, the petition, in addition to the foregoing facts, must set forth in what way an advantage or benefit will accrue to the estate and those interested therein by such sale. If any of the matters herein enumerated cannot be ascertained, it must be so stated in the petition; but a failure to set forth facts hereinbefore enumerated will not invalidate the subsequent proceedings if the general facts showing that such sale is necessary or that such sale is for the advantage, benefit, and best interests of the estate and those interested therein are stated in the decree.

SEC. 383. Section fifteen hundred and forty of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1540. The court, at the time and place appointed in such order, or at such other time to which the hearing may be postponed, upon satisfactory proof of personal service or publication of a copy of the order, by affidavit or otherwise, if the consent in writing to such sale of all parties interested is not filed, must proceed to hear the petition, and hear and examine the allegations and proofs of the petitioner, and of all persons interested in the estate who may oppose the application.

SEC. 384. Section fifteen hundred and forty-three of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1543. If it appears to the satisfaction of the court, after a full hearing upon the petition and an examination of the proofs and allegations of the parties interested, that a sale of the whole or some portion of the real estate is necessary for any of the causes mentioned in this article, or that a sale of the whole or some portion of the real estate is for the advantage, benefit, and best interests of the estate and those interested therein, or if such sale be assented to by all the persons interested, an order must be made to sell the whole, or so much and such parts of the real estate described in the petition as the court shall judge necessary, or for the advantage, benefit, and best interests of the estate and those interested therein. A sale of real property may also be ordered, for the sole purpose of paying a debt secured by mortgage or lien on such property, which has been presented and allowed. In such case the petition need not set forth or refer to the personal estate, or any other debt or expense of administration, or any other real property than that so petitioned to be sold.

SEC. 385. Section fifteen hundred and forty-four of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1544. The order of sale must describe the lands to be sold, and the terms of sale, which may be for cash, or on a credit, in whole or in part, not exceeding one year, payable in gross or in installments, and in such kind of money, with interest, as the court may direct. The land may be sold in one parcel or in subdivisions, as the executor or administrator shall judge most beneficial to the estate, unless the court otherwise specially directs. If it appears that any part of such real estate has been devised, and not charged in such devise with the payment of debts or legacies, the court must order the remainder to be sold before that so devised. Every such sale must be ordered to be made at public auction, unless, in the opinion of the court, it will benefit the estate to sell the whole or some part of such real estate at private sale. If a private sale is asked for in the petition, the court may order the property, or any part thereof, to be sold at private sale, if such appears to be most beneficial to the estate; otherwise, all sales must be directed to be made at public auction. If the executor or administrator neglects or refuses to make a sale under the order, and as directed therein, he may be compelled to sell, by order of the court, made on motion, after due notice, by any party interested.

SEC. 386. Section fifteen hundred and fifty-two of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1552. The executor or administrator, after making any sale of real estate, must make a return of his proceedings to the court, which must be filed in the office of the clerk at any time subsequent to the sale. A hearing upon the return of the proceedings may be asked for in the return or by petition subsequently, and thereupon the clerk must fix the day for the hearing, of which notice of at least ten days must be given by the clerk by notices posted in three public places in the county or by publication in a newspaper, and must briefly indicate the land sold, the sum for which it was sold and must refer to the return for further particulars. Upon the hearing, the court must examine the return and witnesses in relation to the same, and if the proceedings were unfair or the sum bid disproportionate to the value, or if it appears that a sum exceeding such bid, exclusive of the expenses of a new sale, may be obtained, the court may vacate the sale and direct another to be had, of which notice must be given, and the sale in all respects conducted as if no previous sale had taken place. If a greater amount than that named in the return is offered to the court in writing by a responsible person, it may, in its discretion, accept such offer and confirm the sale to such person or order a new sale.

SEC. 387. Section fifteen hundred and sixty-nine of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1569. When any sale is made by an executor or administrator, pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, of lands subject to any mortgage or other lien, which is a valid claim against the estate of the decedent, and has been presented and allowed, the purchase money must be applied, after paying the necessary expenses of the sale, first, to the payment and satisfaction of the mortgage or lien, and the residue, if any, in due course of administration. The application of the purchase money to the satisfaction of the mortgage or lien must be made without delay; and the land is subject to such mortgage or lien until the purchase money has been actually so applied. The purchase money, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to pay such mortgage or lien, with interest, and any lawful costs and charges thereon, may be paid to the county treasurer for the holder of the mortgage or lien; and upon presentation of the treasurer's receipt therefor, and upon notice of not less than five days, the court may order the mortgage or lien to be satisfied of record, and upon receipt of a certified copy of such order, the recorder must enter satisfaction of the mortgage or lien. At any time after the payment of such money to the county treasurer, the holder of the mortgage or lien may, upon notice of not less than five days, obtain an order from the court, directing the treasurer to pay to him the same, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the mortgage or lien, and the surplus, if any, must thereupon be at once returned to the executor or administrator.

SEC. 388. Section fifteen hundred and seventy-three of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1573. No action for the recovery of any property sold by an executor or administrator, under the provisions of this chapter, can be maintained by any heir or other person claiming under the decedent unless it is commenced within three years next after the taking of possession of such property by the purchaser under the sale. An action to set aside the sale on the ground of fraud or mistake, may be instituted and maintained at any time within three years from the discovery, by the aggrieved party, of the facts constituting the fraud or mistake.

SEC. 389. Section fifteen hundred and seventy-five of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1575. When a sale has been made by an executor or administrator of any property of the estate, real or personal, he must return to the court, within thirty days thereafter, an account of sales, verified by his affidavit, or in case of his absence from the county, or other inability, by the affidavit of his attorney. If he neglects to make such return, he may be punished by attachment, or his letters may be revoked, not less than five days' notice having been first given him to appear and show cause why such attachment should not issue, or such revocation not be made.

SEC. 390. Section fifteen hundred and seventy-six of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1576. Except upon the consent in writing of all persons interested in the estate, and by permission of the court, no executor or administrator must, directly or indirectly, purchase any property of the estate he represents, or be interested in any sale thereof.

SEC. 391. Section fifteen hundred and seventy-seven of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1577. Whenever it appears to be for the advantage of the estate to raise money upon a note or notes, to be secured by a mortgage of the real property of any decedent, or of a minor, or of an incompetent person, or any part thereof, or to make a lease of said realty, or any part thereof, the court may, on a petition, notice, and hearing, as provided in this article, authorize and direct the executor, administrator, or guardian to mortgage such real estate or any part thereof, and to execute a note or notes to be secured by such mortgage, or to lease such real estate or any part thereof.

SEC. 392. Section fifteen hundred and seventy-eight of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1578. To obtain an order to mortgage such realty, the proceedings to be taken, and the effect thereof, must be as follows:

First—The executor or administrator of any estate, or guardian of any minor or incompetent person, or any person interested in the estates of such decedents, minors, or incompetent persons, must file a verified petition showing:

1. The particular purpose or purposes for which it is proposed to make the note or notes and mortgage, which must be either to pay the debts, legacies, or charges of administration, or to pay, reduce, extend, or renew some lien or mortgage already subsisting on said realty or some part thereof;

2. A statement of the debts, legacies, charges of administration, liens or mortgages to be paid, reduced, extended, or renewed, as the case may be;

3. The advantage that may accrue to the estate from raising the required money, in the manner, and for the purposes petitioned for;

4. The amount to be raised, with a general description of the property proposed to be mortgaged; and,

5. The names of the legatees and devisees, if any, and of the heirs of the deceased, or of the minor, or of the incompetent person, as the case may be, so far as known to the petitioner.

Second—Upon filing such petition, an order must be made by the court or judge requiring all persons interested in the estate to appear before the court, at a time and place specified, not less than four nor more than ten weeks thereafter, to show cause why the realty (briefly indicating it), or some part thereof, should not be mortgaged for the amount mentioned in the petition (stating such amount), or such lesser amount as to the court or judge shall seem meet, and referring to the petition on file for further particulars.

Third—The order to show cause must be personally served on the persons interested in the estate, at least ten days before the time appointed for hearing the petition, or published for four successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation, published in the county.

Fourth—At the time and at the place appointed in the order to show cause, or at such other time and place to which the hearing may be postponed, having first received satisfactory proof of personal service or publication of the order to show cause, the court must proceed to hear the petition, and any objections that may be presented thereto. Witnesses may be compelled to attend and testify, as in other cases; and if the court is satisfied that it will be for the advantage of the estate to mortgage the whole or any portion of the real estate, an order must be made authorizing and directing the executor, administrator, or guardian to borrow the sum named in the petition, or some lesser amount, and to execute a promissory note or notes therefor, and a mortgage to secure the payment thereof. The order must prescribe the period of the loan, the coin or currency in which it must be paid, the maximum rate of interest, the property to be mortgaged, that the buildings thereon shall be insured for the further security of the lender, and the maximum which may be allowed for the services of attorneys in the event that a suit is brought to foreclose the mortgage; and the order may also provide that the interest on said notes must be paid out of the income of the property mortgaged.

Fifth—After the making of the order to mortgage, the executor, administrator, or guardian must execute and deliver a promissory note or notes for the amount and period specified in the order, and execute, acknowledge, and deliver a mortgage of the premises, setting forth in the mortgage that it is made by authority of the order, and giving the date of such order. A certified copy of the order must be recorded in the office of the county recorder of every county in which the incumbered land, or any portion thereof, lies. The note or notes and mortgage must be signed by the executor, administrator, or guardian as such, but they create no personal liability against the person so signing.

Sixth—Every mortgage so made is effectual to mortgage and hypothecate all the right, title, interest, and estate which the decedent, minor, or incompetent person had in the premises described therein at the time of the death of such decedent, or at the time of the appointment of the guardian, or prior or subsequent thereto. No irregularity in the proceedings shall impair or invalidate the same, or the note or notes and mortgage given in pursuance thereof, and the mortgagee, his heirs and assigns, shall have and possess the same rights and remedies on the note or notes and mortgage as if it had been made by the decedent prior to his death, the minor after reaching the age of majority, or the incompetent person when legally competent; provided, however, that upon any foreclosure, if the proceeds of the incumbered property are insufficient to pay the note or notes and mortgage, no judgment or claim for any deficiency of such proceeds to satisfy the note or notes and mortgage, or the costs or expenses of sale, must be had or allowed, except in cases where the note or notes and mortgage were given to pay, reduce, extend, or renew a lien or mortgage subsisting on the realty, or some part thereof, at the time of the death of the decedent, and the indebtedness secured by such lien or mortgage was an allowed and approved claim against his estate, or a lien upon the interest of the minor in said real estate at the time it vested in him, or upon the estate of the incompetent at the time the incompetency was so declared by the court; and provided, also, that in cases affecting the estates of deceased persons, the part of the indebtedness remaining unsatisfied must be classed and paid with other demands against the estate, as provided in article three, chapter ten, of title eleven, part three, of this code, with respect to mortgages subsisting at the time of death.

SEC. 393. Section fifteen hundred and eighty-two of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1582. Actions for the recovery of any property, real or personal, or for the possession thereof, or to quiet title thereto, or to determine any adverse claim thereto, or for partition of real property, and all actions founded upon contracts, may be maintained by and against executors and administrators in all cases in which the same might have been maintained by or against their respective testators or intestates. The heirs or devisees may themselves, or jointly with the executor or administrator, maintain an action for the possession of the real estate, or for the purpose of quieting title to the same, against any one except the executor or administrator; but this section must not be construed as requiring them so to do.

SEC. 394. Section fifteen hundred and eighty-three of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1583. Actions for wasting, destroying, taking, carrying away, or converting any goods or chattels, or for trespass on real estate, may be maintained by and against executors and administrators in all cases in which the same might have been maintained by or against their respective testators or intestates.

SEC. 395. A new section is hereby added to said code, to be numbered fifteen hundred and eighty-four, and to read as follows:

Section 1584. Executors and administrators may maintain actions to enforce trusts in real or personal property created or existing in favor of their respective testators or intestates, and to compel the conveyance or delivery of the trust property, or any part thereof. In any such action, the court may, by its judgment, direct that such property be conveyed or delivered to the executor or administrator for the benefit of the estate. Any person holding any property to which the estate is entitled, may convey the same to the executor or administrator for the benefit of the estate, with the same effect as if the testator or intestate were still living and the property had been conveyed to him. An executor or administrator may also take and hold, for the benefit of the estate, under a decree of distribution in the estate of another deceased person, any property of such estate to which his testator or intestate would have been entitled if living.

SEC. 396. Section fifteen hundred and eighty-seven of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1587. In actions by or against executors, it is not necessary to join those as parties who have been appointed executors but have not qualified.

SEC. 397. Section fifteen hundred and eighty-nine of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1589. When there is a deficiency of assets in the hands of an executor or administrator, and when the decedent, in his lifetime, has conveyed any real estate, or any rights or interests therein, with intent to defraud his creditors, or to avoid any right, debt, or duty of any person, or has so conveyed such estate that by law the deeds or conveyances are void as against creditors, the executor or administrator must commence and prosecute to final judgment any proper action for the recovery of the same; and may recover for the benefit of the creditors all such real estate so fraudulently conveyed, and may also, for the benefit of the creditors, sue for and recover all goods, chattels, rights, or credits which have been so conveyed by the decedent in his lifetime, whatever may have been the manner of such fraudulent conveyance.

SEC. 398. Section fifteen hundred and ninety-one of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1591. All real estate so recovered must be sold for the payment of debts, in the same manner as if the decedent had died seized thereof, upon obtaining an order therefor from the court; and the proceeds of all goods, chattels, rights and credits so recovered must be appropriated in payment of the debts of the decedent in the same manner as other property in the hands of the executor or administrator. The remainder of the proceeds, after all the debts of the decedent have been paid, must be paid to the person from whom such property was recovered.

SEC. 399. A section is hereby added to said code, to be numbered fifteen hundred and ninety-two, to read as follows:

Section 1592. Pending the settlement of any estate, on the petition of any person interested therein, and upon good cause shown therefor, the court may order any moneys in the hands of the executors or administrators to be invested for the benefit of the estate in securities of the United States, or of this state. Such order can only be made after publication of notice of the petition for not less than ten days in some newspaper, to be designated by the court or a judge thereof.

SEC. 400. Section fifteen hundred and ninety-eight of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1598. On the presentation of a verified petition by the executor or administrator, or by any person claiming to be entitled to such conveyance from an executor or administrator, setting forth the facts upon which the claim is predicated, the court, or a judge thereof, must appoint a time and place for hearing the petition, and must order notice thereof to be served on the executor or administrator personally, when he is not the petitioner, and published at least four successive weeks before such hearing, in such newspaper in this state as he may designate.

SEC. 401. Section sixteen hundred of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1600. If after a full hearing upon the petition and objections, and examination of the facts and circumstances of the claim, the court is satisfied that the petitioner is entitled to a conveyance of the real estate described in the petition, a decree authorizing and directing the executor or administrator to execute a conveyance thereof to the petitioner must be made.

SEC. 402. Section sixteen hundred and seven of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1607. The decree provided for in this chapter may direct the possession of the property therein described to be surrendered to the person entitled thereto, upon his producing a certified copy of the decree, when, by the terms of the contract, possession is to be surrendered.

SEC. 403. Section sixteen hundred and twelve of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1612. No executor or administrator is chargeable upon any special promise to answer in damages or to pay the debts of the testator or intestate out of his own estate, unless the agreement for that purpose, or some memorandum or note thereof, is in writing and signed by such executor or administrator, or by some other person by him thereunto specially authorized in writing.

SEC. 404. Section sixteen hundred and eighteen of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1618. When no compensation is provided by the will, or the executor renounces all claim thereto, he must be allowed commissions upon the amount of estate accounted for by him, as follows: for the first thousand dollars, at the rate of seven per cent; for all above that sum, and not exceeding ten thousand dollars, at the rate of five per cent; for all above ten thousand dollars, and not exceeding twenty thousand dollars, at the rate of four per cent; for all above twenty thousand dollars, and not exceeding fifty thousand dollars, at the rate of three per cent; for all above fifty thousand dollars, and not exceeding one hundred thousand dollars, at the rate of two per cent; and for all above one hundred thousand dollars, at the rate of one per cent. The same commissions must be allowed to administrators. In all cases the amount of the commissions may be increased or diminished, as the court may deem reasonable and just for the services performed, but such increase or diminution shall in no event exceed one half the amount of commissions allowed by this section. Where the property of the estate is distributed in kind, and involves no labor beyond the custody and distribution of the same, the commissions must be computed on all the estate above the value of twenty thousand dollars, at one half of the rates fixed in this section. Public administrators shall receive the same compensation and allowances as are allowed in this title to other administrators. All contracts between an executor or administrator and an heir, devisee, or legatee, for a higher compensation than that allowed by this section are void; provided, this section shall not apply to estates now in course of administration, except where, and to the extent that, such estates consist of bonds and other securities, to be distributed without extra expense in administration. Upon the death, resignation, or removal of any executor or administrator, the court must, in settling his account, allow him, for his compensation, such part of the commissions heretofore designated as may seem just, taking into consideration the services rendered, and, so far as the court can ascertain, the services necessary to be rendered to complete the administration of the estate.

SEC. 405. Section sixteen hundred and twenty-two of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1622. When required by the court, either upon its own motion or upon the application of any person interested in the estate, the executor or administrator must render an exhibit under oath, showing the amount of money received and expended by him, the amount of all claims presented against the estate, and the names of the claimants, and all other matters necessary to show the condition of its affairs.

SEC. 406. Section sixteen hundred and twenty-three of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 407. Section sixteen hundred and twenty-four of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 408. Section sixteen hundred and twenty-five of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 409. Section sixteen hundred and thirty-six of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1636. All matters, including allowed claims not passed upon on the settlement of any former account, or on rendering an exhibit, or on making a decree of sale, may be contested by the heirs, for cause shown. The hearing and allegations of the respective parties may be postponed from time to time, when necessary, and the court may appoint one or more referees to examine the accounts, and make report thereon, subject to confirmation; and may allow a reasonable compensation to the referees, to be paid out of the estate of the decedent. Whenever an allowed claim is contested by any heir, or other person entitled to contest it, either the contestant or the claimant is entitled to a trial by jury of the issues of fact presented by the contest; and it is the duty of the court, at request of either party, to call a jury and submit to them such issues, and, after receiving their verdict, to enter an order disposing of such contest in accordance therewith.

SEC. 410. Section sixteen hundred and thirty-nine of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1639. If any executor or administrator dies, his accounts may be presented by his personal representatives to and settled by the court in which the estate of which he was executor or administrator is being administered, and, upon petition of the successor of such deceased executor or administrator, such court may compel the personal representatives of such deceased executor or administrator to render an account of the administration of their testator or intestate, and must settle such account as in other cases.

SEC. 411. Section sixteen hundred and forty of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 412. Section sixteen hundred and forty-three of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1643. The debts of the estate, subject to the provisions of section twelve hundred and five, must be paid in the following order:

1. Funeral expenses;
2. The expenses of the last sickness;
3. Debts having preference by the laws of the United States;
4. Judgments rendered against the decedent in his lifetime, and mortgages and other liens in the order of their date;
5. All other demands against the estate.

If a debt is payable in a particular kind of money or currency, it must be paid only in such money or currency. If the estate is insolvent, no greater rate of interest must be paid upon any debt, from the time of the first publication of notice to creditors, than is allowed by law on judgments.

SEC. 413. Section sixteen hundred and forty-four of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1644. The preference given in the preceding section to a mortgage or lien only extends to the proceeds of the property subject to the mortgage or lien. If the proceeds of such property are insufficient to pay the mortgage or lien, the part remaining unsatisfied must be classed with general demands against the estate.

SEC. 414. Section sixteen hundred and forty-seven of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1647. Upon the settlement of the account of the executor or administrator, provided for in section sixteen hundred and twenty-eight, the court must make an order for the payment of the debts, as the circumstances of the estate require. If there are not sufficient funds in the hands of the executor or administrator, the court must specify in the decree the sum to be paid to each creditor. If the whole property of the estate is exhausted by such payment or distribution, such account must be considered as a final account, and the executor or administrator is entitled to his discharge on producing and filing the necessary vouchers and proofs showing that such payments have been made, and that he has fully complied with the decree of the court.

SEC. 415. Section sixteen hundred and fifty-eight of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1658. At any time after the lapse of four months from the issuing of letters testamentary or of administration, any heir, devisee, or legatee may present his petition to the court for the legacy or share of the estate to which he is entitled, or any portion thereof, to be given to him upon his giving bonds, with security, for the payment of his proportion of the debts of the estate.

SEC. 416. Section sixteen hundred and sixty-one of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1661. If, at the hearing, it appears that the estate is but little indebted, and that the share of the party applying may be allowed to him without loss to the creditors of the estate, the court must make an order in conformity with the prayer of the applicant, requiring:

1. Each heir, legatee, or devisee, obtaining such order, before receiving his share, or any portion thereof, to execute and deliver to the executor or administrator a bond, in such sum as may be designated by the court, or a judge thereof, with sureties to be approved by the judge, payable to the executor or administrator, and conditioned for the payment, whenever required, of his proportion of the debts due from the estate, not exceeding the value or amount of the legacy or portion of the estate to which he is entitled. Where the time for filing or presenting claims has expired, and all claims that have been allowed have been paid, or are secured by mortgage upon real estate sufficient to pay them, and the court is satisfied that no injury can result to the estate, the court may dispense with the bond;

2. The executor or administrator to deliver to the heir, legatee, or devisee, the whole portion of the estate to which he may be entitled, or only a part thereof, designating it.

If, in the execution of the order, a partition is necessary between two or more of the parties interested, it must be made in the manner hereinafter prescribed. The costs of these proceedings must be paid by the applicant, or if there are more than one, must be apportioned equally among them.

Sec. 417. Section sixteen hundred and sixty-three of said code is hereby repealed.

Sec. 418. Section sixteen hundred and sixty-five of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1665. Upon the final settlement of the accounts of the executor or administrator, or at any subsequent time, upon the application of the executor or administrator, or of any heir, legatee, or devisee, the court must proceed to distribute the residue of the estate in the hands of the executor or administrator, if any, among the persons who by law are entitled thereto; and if the decedent has left a surviving child, or the issue of a deceased child, and any of them, before the close of the administration, have died while under age and not having been married, no administration on such deceased child's estate is necessary, but all the estate which such deceased child was entitled to by inheritance must, without administration, be distributed as provided in the Civil Code. A statement of any receipts and disbursements of the executor or administrator, since the rendition of his final account, must be reported and filed at the time of making such distribution; and a settlement thereof, together with an estimate of the expenses of closing the estate, must be made by the court, and included in the order or decree, or the court or judge may order notice of the settlement of such supplementary account, and refer the same as in other cases of the settlement of accounts.

Sec. 419. Section sixteen hundred and sixty-eight of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1668. The order or decree may be made on the petition of the executor or administrator, or of any person interested in the estate. When such petition is filed the clerk of the court must set the petition for hearing by the court, and give notice thereof by causing notices to be posted in at least three public places in the county, setting forth the name of the estate, the executor or administrator, and the time appointed for the hearing of the petition. If, upon the hearing of the petition, the court, or a judge thereof, deems the notice insufficient from any cause, he may order such further notice to be given as may seem to him proper. At the time fixed for the hearing, or to which the hearing may be postponed, any person interested in the estate may appear and contest the petition by filing written objections thereto. If the partition is applied for, as provided in this chapter, the decree of distribution does not divest the court of jurisdiction to order partition, unless the estate is finally closed.

Sec. 420. Section sixteen hundred and sixty-nine of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1669. Before any decree of distribution of an estate is made, the court must be satisfied by the oath of the executor or administrator, or otherwise, that all state, county, and municipal taxes, legally levied upon property of the estate, have been fully paid.

Sec. 421. Section sixteen hundred and seventy-seven of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1677. If the real estate is in different counties, and it appears to the court that partition of the land in one of such counties may be had without reference to the land in the other counties, the court may appoint different commissioners to partition the property in that county, or may direct the commissioners first appointed to partition the property in any particular county, as if there were no other estate to be divided. Unless such directions are given, all the land to be partitioned, wherever situated, must be partitioned as a whole.

Sec. 422. Section sixteen hundred and seventy-eight of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1678. Partition or distribution of the property of the estate may be made as provided in this chapter, although some of the original heirs, legatees, or devisees may have conveyed their shares to other persons, and such shares must be assigned to the person holding the same in the same manner as they otherwise would have been to such heirs, legatees, or devisees. If any heir, devisee, or legatee has died after the death of his ancestor or testator, his share must, except as otherwise provided in section sixteen hundred and sixty-five, be distributed to the persons to whom the same may have been distributed in the administration of his estate, or, if no such distribution has been had, then to his executor or administrator for the benefit of his estate.

Sec. 423. Section sixteen hundred and ninety-three of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1693. When personal property remains in the hands of the agent unclaimed for a year, and it appears to the court that it is for the benefit of those interested, it shall be sold under the order of the court, and the proceeds, after deducting the expenses of the sale allowed by the court, must be paid into the county treasury. When the payment is made, the agent must take from the treasury duplicate receipts, one of which he must file in the office of the auditor, and the other in the court.

SEC. 424. Section sixteen hundred and ninety-six of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1696. When any person appears and claims the money paid into the treasury, the court making the distribution must inquire into such claim, and, being first satisfied of his right thereto, must grant him a certificate to that effect, under its seal; and upon the presentation of the certificate to him, the auditor must draw his warrant on the treasurer for the amount.

SEC. 425. Section sixteen hundred and ninety-nine of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1699. Where any trust has been created by or under any will to continue after distribution, the superior court shall not lose jurisdiction of the estate by final distribution, but shall retain jurisdiction thereof for the purpose of the settlement of accounts under the trust. And any trustee created by any will, or appointed to execute any trust created by any will, may, from time to time, pending the execution of his trust, or may at the termination thereof, render and pray for the settlement of his accounts as such trustee, before the superior court in which the will was probated, and in the manner provided for the settlement of the accounts of executors and administrators. The trustee, or in case of his death, his legal representatives, must for that purpose present to the court his verified petition, setting forth his accounts in detail, together with a verified statement of said trustee, giving the names and postoffice addresses, if known, of the cestui que trust, and upon the filing thereof, the clerk of the court must appoint a day for the hearing, and thereupon give notice thereof of not less than ten days, by causing notices to be posted in at least three public places in the county, setting forth the name of the trust estate, the trustee, and the day appointed for the settlement of the account. The court, or a judge thereof, may order such further notice to be given as may be proper, and any such trustee may, in the discretion of the court, upon application of any beneficiary of the trust, be ordered to appear and render his account, after being cited by service of citation, as provided for the service of summons in civil cases. Upon the filing of the account so ordered, the same proceedings for the hearing and settlement thereof must be had as are hereinabove provided.

SEC. 426. Section seventeen hundred and two of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1702. Any person named or designated as a trustee in any will which has been or shall hereafter be admitted to probate in this state may decline to act as such trustee, and an order of court must thereupon be made accepting such resignation; but the declination of any such person who has qualified as executor must not be accepted by the court, unless the same is in writing and filed in the matter of the estate in the court, and such notice must be given thereof as is required upon a petition praying for letters of administration. The court has power at any time to appoint some fit and proper person to fill any vacancy in the office of trustee under the will, whether resulting from such declination, removal, or otherwise, provided it is required by law or necessary to carry out the trust created by the will, that such vacancy shall be filled; and every person so appointed must, before acting as trustee, give a bond such as is required by section one thousand three hundred and eighty-eight, of a person to whom letters of administration are directed to issue. Such appointment may be made by the court upon the written application of any person interested in the trust, and must only be made after notice to all parties interested in the trust, given in the same manner as notice is required to be given of the hearing upon the petition for the probate of a will. In each of the preceding cases the court may order such further notice as shall seem necessary. In accepting a declination under the provisions of this section, the court may make and enforce any order which may be necessary for the preservation of the estate. This section is applicable to any and all estates now pending in which a final distribution and discharge has not been granted.

SEC. 427. Section seventeen hundred and three and a half of said code is hereby numbered seventeen hundred and three a.

SEC. 428. Section seventeen hundred and ten of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1710. At any time during the progress of the administration, any person interested in the estate may serve upon the executor or administrator, and file with the clerk an appearance, in person or by attorney, specifying a place at which notices may be served upon him. Such appearance must also be served upon any other person who has theretofore so appeared. Any person so appearing is entitled to personal notice of all subsequent proceedings required to be had upon notice; which notice must, unless otherwise provided in this title, be given at least five days before the hearing, and in the manner prescribed in chapter five, title fourteen, of part two, of this code. In all other cases, when personal notice is required, and no mode of giving it is prescribed in this title, it must be given either by citation or in the mode prescribed in sections ten hundred and ten and ten hundred and eleven.

SEC. 429. Section seventeen hundred and fifteen of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 430. Section seventeen hundred and seventeen of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1717. If no jury is demanded, the court must try the issues joined, and sign and file its decision in writing, as provided in section six hundred and thirty-two and six hundred and thirty-three. If, on written demand, a jury is called by either party, and the issues are not sufficiently made up by the written pleadings on file, the court, on due notice to the opposite party, must settle and frame the issues to be tried, and submit the same, together with the evidence of each party, to the jury, on which they must render a verdict. Either party may move for a new trial, upon the same grounds and errors, and in like manner, as provided in this code for civil actions.

SEC. 431. Section seventeen hundred and eighteen of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 432. Section seventeen hundred and twenty-three of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1723. Upon the death of one of two spouses entitled to a homestead which thereby vests in the survivor, or of the owner of an estate for his own life, any person interested in such homestead, or in the property subject to such life estate, may file in the superior court of the county in which the property is situated his verified petition, setting forth such fact, and thereupon, after such notice by publication or otherwise as the court may direct, it must hear such petition and any evidence which may be offered in support or resistance thereof, and if it appears that such spouse or the owner of such life estate has died, the court must make a decree declaring such death, and the date thereof if known, and that thereby such deceased person ceased to have any estate or interest in such property; and a certified copy of such decree, recorded in the office of the county recorder of the county wherein the property is situated, is conclusive evidence of the facts therein stated.

SEC. 433. Section seventeen hundred and thirty-three of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 434. Section seventeen hundred and thirty-four of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 435. Section seventeen hundred and thirty-seven of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1737. It is the duty of every public administrator, as soon as he receives the same, to deposit with the county treasurer of the county in which the probate proceedings are pending, all moneys of the estate; and such moneys may be drawn upon the order of the public administrator, countersigned by a superior judge, when required for the purposes of administration. It is the duty of the county treasurer to receive and safely keep all such moneys, and pay them out upon the order of the public administrator, when countersigned by a superior judge, and not otherwise, and to keep an account with such estate of all moneys received and paid to him; and the county treasurer must be allowed one per cent upon all moneys received and kept by him, and no greater fees for any services herein provided; and for the safe keeping and payment of all such moneys, as herein provided, the said treasurer and his sureties are responsible upon his official bond. The moneys thus deposited may, upon order of the court, be invested, pending the proceedings, in securities of the United States, or of this state, when such investment is deemed by the court to be for the best interests of the estate. After a final settlement of the affairs of any estate, if there are no heirs, or other claimants thereof, the county treasurer must pay into the state treasury all moneys and effects in his hands belonging to the estate, upon order of the court, and if any such moneys and effects escheat to the state, they must be disposed of as other escheated estates.

SEC. 436. The heading of article one of chapter fourteen of title eleven of part three is hereby amended to read as follows: "Guardians of resident minors."

SEC. 437. Section seventeen hundred and forty-seven of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1747. The superior court of each county, when it appears necessary or convenient, may appoint guardians for the persons and estates, or either of them, of minors who have no guardian legally appointed by will or deed, and who are inhabitants or residents of the county. Such appointment may be made on the petition of a relative or other person on behalf of the minor, or on the petition of a minor, if fourteen years of age. Before making such appointment, the court must cause such notice as it deems reasonable to be given to any person having the care of such minor, and to such relatives of the minor residing in the county as the court may deem proper.

SEC. 438. Section seventeen hundred and fifty of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1750. When a guardian has been appointed by the court for a minor under the age of fourteen years, the minor, at any time after he attains that age, may nominate his own guardian, subject to the approval of the court.

SEC. 439. Section seventeen hundred and fifty-two of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 440. Section seventeen hundred and fifty-three of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1753. Every guardian appointed has the custody and care of the education of the minor, and the care and management of his estate, until such minor arrives at the age of majority or marries, or until the guardian is legally discharged, unless he is appointed guardian only of the person of the ward. In that event, the guardian is charged with the custody of the ward, and must look to his support, health, and education. He may fix the residence of the ward at any place in the state, but not elsewhere without the permission of the court.

SEC. 441. Section seventeen hundred and fifty-eight of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1758. Every testamentary guardian must, unless otherwise provided in the will, give bond and qualify, and has the same powers and must perform the same duties with regard to the person and estate of his ward as guardians appointed by the court, except so far as their powers and duties are legally modified, enlarged, or changed by the will by which such guardian was appointed.

SEC. 442. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered seventeen hundred and sixty, to read as follows:

Section 1760. The power of a guardian appointed by a court is superseded:

1. By order of the court;

2. If the appointment was made solely because of the ward's minority, by his attaining majority;

3. The guardianship over the person of the ward, by the marriage of the ward.

SEC. 443. Section seventeen hundred and sixty-three of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1763. When it is represented to the superior court, upon verified petition of any relative or friend, that any person resident of the county is insane, or from any cause mentally incompetent to manage his property, such court must cause a notice to be given to the supposed insane or incompetent person of the time and place of hearing the case, not less than five days before the time so appointed; and such person, if able to attend, must be produced on the hearing.

SEC. 444. Section seventeen hundred and sixty-six of said code is hereby amended to read as follows.

Section 1766. Any person who has been declared insane or incompetent, or the guardian, or any relative of such person within the third degree, or any friend, may apply, by petition, to the superior court of the county in which he was declared insane, to have the fact of his restoration to capacity judicially determined. The petition must be verified, and must state that such person is then sane or competent. Upon receiving the petition, the court must appoint a day for hearing before the court, and, if the petitioner requests it, must order an investigation before a jury, which must be summoned and impaneled in the same manner as juries in civil actions. The court must cause notice of the trial to be given to the guardian of the person so declared insane or incompetent, if there is a guardian, and to his or her husband or wife, if there is one, and to his or her father or mother, if living in the county. On the trial, the guardian or relative of the person so declared insane or incompetent, and, in the discretion of the court, any other person, may contest the right to the relief demanded. Witnesses may be required to appear and testify, as in civil cases, and may be called and examined by the court on its own motion. If it is found that the person is of sound mind, and capable of taking care of himself and his property, his restoration to capacity must be adjudged, and the guardianship of such person, if such person is not a minor, must cease.

Such inventory, with the appraisement of the property therein described, must be recorded by the clerk of the court in a proper book kept in his office for that purpose. Whenever any other property of the estate of any ward is discovered, not included in the inventory of the estate already returned, and whenever any other property has been succeeded to, or acquired by any ward, or for his benefit, the like proceedings must be had for the return and appraisement thereof as are herein provided in relation to the first inventory and return.

He must also be allowed all reasonable and proper disbursements, made after the legal termination of the guardianship, but while that relation, by consent or acquiescence of the parties, still subsists in fact, and before the discharge of the guardian by the court, and which were made by the consent, express or implied, of the ward, and for his benefit or the benefit of his estate.

SEC. 449. Section seventeen hundred and ninety-three of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1793. The superior court may appoint a guardian of the person and estate, or either, of a minor, insane or incompetent person, who has no guardian within the state, legally appointed by will, deed or otherwise, and who resides without the state, and has estate within the county, or who, though not having such estate, is within the county, upon petition of any friend of such person or any one interested in his estate, in expectancy or otherwise. Before making such appointment, the court must cause notice to be given to all persons interested, in such manner as such court deems reasonable.

A certified copy of the decree, with such oath indorsed thereon, must be recorded in the office of the recorder of the county where the business is to be carried on, in a book to be kept for such purpose.

The clerk of the court must thereupon publish, for at least ten days prior to the day so appointed, a notice in some newspaper published in the county, stating that such petition will be heard at the court-room of the court at the time appointed for the hearing. The court may direct further notice of the application to be given in such manner and to such persons as it may deem proper. At the time so fixed for such hearing, or at any subsequent time to which the hearing may be postponed, the court must hear the petition and the evidence offered in support of or in opposition thereto, and, if satisfied that the allegations thereof are true, and that such person remains missing, and his whereabouts unknown, must appoint some suitable person to take charge and possession of such estate, and manage and control it under the direction of the court. In appointing a trustee, the court must prefer the wife of the missing person (if any such there is), or her nominee, and, in the absence of a wife, some person, if such there is, who is willing to act, entitled to participate in the distribution of the missing person's estate, were he dead.

The court may direct the trustee to pay to the person or persons constituting the family of the missing person such sum or sums of money for family expenses and support from the income of the estate as it may, from time to time, determine. The trustee must, from time to time, when directed by the court, account to and with it for

Sec. 466. Section eighteen hundred and eighty-one of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1881. There are particular relations in which it is the policy of the law to encourage confidence and to preserve it inviolate; therefore, a person cannot be examined as a witness in the following cases:

1. A husband cannot be examined for or against his wife without her consent; nor a wife for or against her husband without his consent; nor can either, during the marriage or afterwards, be, without the consent of the other, examined as to any communication made by one to the other during the marriage; but this provision does not apply to a civil action or proceeding by one against the other, nor to a criminal action or proceeding for a crime committed by one against the other;

2. An attorney cannot, without the consent of his client, be examined as to any communication made by the client to him, or his advice given thereon in the course of professional employment; nor can an attorney's secretary, stenographer, or clerk be examined, without the consent of his employer, concerning any fact the knowledge of which has been acquired in such capacity; but no communication is privileged under this subdivision when the same was made with the intention that it should be communicated to any person having an interest adverse to the client, or when the same was made in furtherance of a crime or fraud then being perpetrated or in contemplation of;

3. A clergyman or priest cannot, without the consent of the person making the confession, be examined as to any confession made to him in his professional character in the course of discipline enjoined by the church to which he belongs; nor as to any information obtained by him from a person about to make such confession, and received in the course of preparation for such confession;

4. A physician or surgeon, or the assistant of either of them, cannot, without the consent of the patient, be examined in a civil action as to any information acquired in attending the patient, which was necessary to enable the physician or surgeon to prescribe or act for the patient; but this subdivision does not apply in an action between a physician or surgeon and his patient in which the treatment of the patient by the physician or surgeon is in issue; and provided, that in an action brought under section three hundred and seventy-six or three hundred and seventy-seven a physician or surgeon is competent to testify as to the cause of the death of the deceased;

5. A public officer cannot be examined as to communications made to him in official confidence, when the public interests would suffer by the disclosure.

Sec. 467. A new section is hereby added to said code, to be numbered eighteen hundred and eighty-two, and to read as follows:

Section 1882. Consent to the giving of such testimony as is mentioned in section eighteen hundred and eighty-one is conclusively implied in the following cases:

1. When the person who made any communication mentioned in that section testifies, without objection on his part, as to such communication or any part thereof, the person to whom such communication was made may be examined fully, in the same action or proceeding, as to such communication;

2. When a person employs an attorney to prepare his will, the attorney may, in any proceeding for the probate or revocation of probate of such will, testify as to the contents of such will if lost or destroyed, and as to all information and instructions received by him from the testator, in the course of the preparation or execution of such will, and relating thereto;

3. When a husband or wife has become incompetent or is dead, the other spouse may, in an action or proceeding to which the guardian or personal representative of such incompetent or deceased person is a party, and with the consent of such guardian or personal representative, testify as to communications made by such incompetent or deceased person, but must not be compelled to so testify;

4. In an action brought by the beneficiary to recover on a policy of life insurance, taken out by the person whose life was insured, a physician or surgeon may, with the consent of the beneficiary, testify as to any information acquired by him in attending the deceased, but must not be compelled to so testify.

Nothing in this section contained affects the right of the court to admit any of the testimony mentioned in section eighteen hundred and eighty-one, when no objection is seasonably interposed thereto, or when the court finds, as an inference from proper evidence, that the consent mentioned in that section has been given or implied.

Sec. 468. Section nineteen hundred and five of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1905. Sec. 470. Section nineteen hundred and ten of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1915. The effect of the judgment of any other tribunal of a foreign country having jurisdiction to pronounce the judgment, is as follows:

1. In case of a judgment against a specific thing, the judgment is conclusive upon the title to the thing;

2. In all other cases the judgment is presumptive evidence of a right as between the parties and their successors in interest by a subsequent title, and can only be repelled by evidence of a want of jurisdiction, want of notice to the party, collusion, fraud, or clear mistake of law or fact.

8. Documents of any other class in a foreign country, by the original, or by a copy, certified by the legal keeper thereof, under his seal, if he has one, with a certificate of the minister or ambassador, or a consul, vice-consul, or consular agent of the United States in such foreign country, to the effect that the document is a valid and subsisting document of such country, and that the copy is duly certified by the officer having the custody of the original;

Section 1925. A certificate of purchase or of location of any lands in this state, issued or made in pursuance of any law of the United States or of this state, is prima facie evidence that the holder or assignee of such certificate is the owner of the land described therein; but this evidence may be overcome by proof that at the time of the location, or time of filing a pre-emption claim on which the certificate may have been issued, the land was in the adverse possession of the adverse party, or those under whom he claims, or that the adverse party is holding the land for mining purposes.

SEC. 476. Section nineteen hundred and thirty-five of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

SEC. 482. Section nineteen hundred and forty-six of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1946. The entries and other writings of a decedent, made at or near the time of the transaction, when he was in a position to know the facts stated therein, may be read as prima facie evidence of such facts, in the following cases:

7. Any other presumption which, by statute, is expressly made conclusive.

SEC. 487. Section nineteen hundred and sixty-three of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

SEC. 504. Section twenty hundred and twenty-two of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 2022. The deposition of a witness out of this state may be taken upon a commission issued from the court under the seal of the court, upon an order of the court, or a judge or a justice thereof, on the application of either party, upon five days' previous notice to the other. If the court is a justice's court, the commission must have attached to it a certificate of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such justice's court is held, under the seal of such superior court, to the effect that the person issuing the same was an acting justice of the peace at the date of the commission. On the hearing of the motion, the other party must propose such cross-interrogatories as he may desire. If the parties do not agree as to the form of the interrogatories, the court must settle their form, but such agreement or settlement does not preclude either party, when the deposition is offered in evidence, from interposing any objection to any interrogatory except as to the form thereof. The settlement of interrogatories may be had at the time of the hearing of the motion, or at any other time which the court may appoint; but the moving party must, if he request it, be allowed two days within which to propose such redirect interrogatories as the cross-interrogatories proposed render proper. When agreed upon or settled, the interrogatories must be annexed to the commission; or, when the parties agree to that mode, or the court on the application of either party, for good cause shown, so directs, the examination must be without written interrogatories.

SEC. 507. Section twenty hundred and twenty-six of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

permit the execution of a commission to take his testimony, the court must settle interrogatories as provided in section twenty hundred and twenty-five, and forward the same to the governor, with a request that he obtain from the government of the United States letters rogatory for the taking of such testimony. The governor must thereupon transmit the interrogatories to the President of the United States, with a request, on behalf of this state, that he cause letters rogatory to be issued and transmitted to the government of such foreign country, requesting such government to cause the deposition of the witness to be taken in response to the interrogatories; or the court before which the deposition is to be used may, instead of forwarding such interrogatories to the governor, designate a court of such foreign country before which the testimony of such witness may be taken, and thereupon the clerk of the court must attach to such interrogatories a request, attested by his hand and the seal of the court, soliciting and requesting such foreign court to cause the deposition of such witness to be taken in response to such interrogatories. Any deposition taken in response to such request or to such letters may be read in evidence as provided in section twenty hundred and twenty-two, if the court is satisfied that the same was fairly taken and returned.

SEC. 509. Section twenty hundred and thirty-one of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 2031. Either party may have the deposition of a witness in this state taken before a judge or officer authorized to administer oaths, on serving upon the adverse party previous notice of the time and place of examination. Such notice must be at least five days, adding also one day for every twenty-five miles of the distance of the place of examination from the residence of the person to whom the notice is given, unless, for good cause shown, a judge of the court, by order, prescribes a shorter time. When a shorter time is prescribed, a copy of the order must be served with the notice.

SEC. 510. Section twenty hundred and thirty-two of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 2032. Either party may attend the examination and put such questions, direct and cross, as may be proper. The deposition cannot be read unless proof is made at the trial that the witness is absent from the county in which his testimony is to be used, or resides out of such county and more than thirty miles from the county seat thereof, or that he is too infirm to attend the trial, or is dead; but such proof need not be made when the witness is a party to the action or proceeding, or, when his deposition was taken, resided out of the county and more than thirty miles from the county seat, nor when the testimony is produced on a motion, or in any other case where the oral examination of the witness is not required. The costs of taking the deposition are in the discretion of the court.

HENRY T. GAGE,
Governor of the State of California.

Also:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, STATE OF CALIFORNIA, }
SACRAMENTO, February 15, 1901. }

To the Senate of the State of California:

I herewith return to your honorable body without my approval, with my objections thereto, Senate Bill No. 117—Entitled "An Act to validate proceedings for the reorganization of municipal corporations taken since the passage of the Act entitled 'An Act to provide for the organization, incorporation, and government of municipal corporations,' approved March 13, 1883."

This bill purports to validate and legalize all attempted reorganizations of cities and counties and cities and towns which have attempted or claimed to incorporate under the general Act of the Legislature, approved March 13, 1883, relating to municipal corporations.

In my opinion this measure is opposed to Section 6, Article XI, of the Constitution of the State, which prohibits the creation of municipal corporations by special laws.

It is attempted to give, by retroactive effect, the same rights and privileges to such cities and towns which failed to incorporate under the law of 1883 as possessed by cities and towns which have fully complied with said general law, and are now organized under it.

Were this measure to become a law, then the effect would be to incorporate by a mere Act of the Legislature a select and arbitrary class of cities and towns. If the cities and towns which it is sought by this bill to incorporate were expressly named, it would be very apparent that the Act would be special and unconstitutional, and it seems to me likewise clear that the bill is none the less in violation of the Constitution because the cities and towns are not named.

The Act of 1883 is a general law, and it is not difficult to comply with its reasonable requirements; hence I am unable to perceive any reason why a special class of cities and towns should be exempted from its provisions.

HENRY T. GAGE,
Governor of the State of California.

The question being "Shall Senate Bill No. 117 become a law, notwithstanding the Governor's objections thereto?"

The roll was called, and the objections of the Governor sustained by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Ashe and Taylor—2.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

On motion of Senator Devlin, the following message from the Governor was taken up and read:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, STATE OF CALIFORNIA, }
SACRAMENTO, February 15, 1901. }

To the Senate of the State of California:

I herewith return without my approval, with my objections thereto, Senate Bill No. 64, entitled "An Act making an appropriation to pay expenses incurred at the State Forestry Station at Chico, California."

In my message to the present Legislature, I called attention to the evil of making all special appropriations payable immediately out of the General Fund, instead of out of future revenue receipts, and after quoting from my inaugural address upon the same subject, I used the following language:

"The revenues for the year 1901 will not be available until after January 1, 1902; hence, all appropriations, other than those necessary for the actual conduct of the State Government, which are usually embraced in the General Appropriation Act, should be made payable out of such future revenues."

Independent of the consideration of the merits of the bill, I am obliged to disapprove of it, because by its terms it is made payable immediately, and not after January 1, 1902.

As sufficient facts have not been submitted to me showing the basis of this claim, and as it has not been presented to the Board of Examiners, I respectfully suggest that your honorable body, during the further hearing of the bill, consider whether this claim is covered by the Act of the Legislature approved March 24, 1893 (Stats. 1893, p. 344), wherein the sum of $200 was appropriated to Ira H. Locey, and the further sum of $100 to Henry Locey, which sums were duly audited by the Board of Examiners, and paid in due course.

HENRY T. GAGE,
Governor of the State of California.

ACTION POSTPONED.

On motion of Senator Belshaw, action on the above message was postponed until Monday, owing to the absence of the author of the bill.

That in considering said bill, your committee met in joint sessions with a like committee of the Assembly.

That said substitute bill accompanying this report is substantially the same as Senate Bill No. 139, and is introduced in the form of a substitute for the reason that several of the provisions of the bill heretofore introduced were not adopted, and it was necessary to renumber the sections of the bill, which could not well be done by separate amendments.

PETITIONS.

The following petition was presented by Senator Flint, and ordered printed in the Journal down to and including the tenth name:

To the Hon. THOMAS FLINT, Esq., Senator representing Senatorial District No. 33:

DEAR SIR: A bill was presented in the Legislature at Sacramento by Senator Nelson of San Francisco, on or about January 29, 1901, in relation to the collection of a license tax on the business of selling liquors. The provisions of this bill are such (especially Sections 3 and 4) that if passed by the Legislature each city and county in the State will be handed over into the power of one man in each of these communities, viz: the tax collector. To pass such a measure, irrespective of the sentiments of these several communities on the question of license or no license, would be, we consider, both un-American and unjust. We, therefore, your constituents, request that you vote against this bill, to the end it may not become a law.

J. W. Bryant, W. S. Boggs, E. F. Winkler, E. M. Lloyd, G. S. Nash, J. M. McHenry, A. S. S. Van Heusen, E. J. Gleason, L. C. Scammon, W. W. Minor, and one hundred and twenty others, of Hollister; and sixteen others, from Pacific Grove.

Like petitions were presented as follows:

By Senator Belshaw, with ninety names.

By Senator Simpson, with thirty-five names.

By Senator Corlett, with eighty names.

By Senator Lukens, with one hundred names.

By Senator Devlin, with name of the pastor for the Sixth-Street M. E. Church of Sacramento.

PETITIONS.

The following petition was presented by Senator Belshaw, and ordered printed in the Journal down to and including the tenth name:

TO THE HON. C. M. BELSHAW, Senator representing Senatorial District No. 11:

DEAR SIR: A bill was presented in the Legislature at Sacramento by Senator Nelson of San Francisco, on or about January 29, 1901, in relation to the collection of a license tax on the business of selling liquors. The provisions of this bill are such (especially Sections 3 and 4) that if passed by the Legislature each city and county in the State will be handed over into the power of one man in each of these communities, viz: the tax collector. To pass such a measure, irrespective of the sentiments of these several communities on the question of license or no license, would be, we consider, both un-American and unjust. We, therefore, your constituents, request that you vote against this bill, to the end it may not become a law.

H. A. Moore, S. S. Woodard, Joseph Corti, John Moline, Chris. F. Mockler, W. H. Atkinson, J. F. Schottler, John B. Green, David Wilson, J. R. Davenport (each of San Rafael, Marin County), and forty others.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, STATE OF CALIFORNIA, }
SACRAMENTO, February 20, 1901. }

To the Senate of the State of California:

I have the honor to inform your honorable body that I have approved Senate Bill No. 123—An Act to amend Section 862 of an Act entitled "An Act to provide for the organization, incorporation, and government of municipal corporations," approved March 13, 1883.

HENRY T. GAGE,
Governor of the State of California.

Also:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, STATE OF CALIFORNIA, }
SACRAMENTO, February 20, 1901. }

To the Senate of the State of California:

I herewith return to your honorable body without my approval, with my objections thereto, Senate Bill No. 2—An Act making an appropriation to pay the claim of the County of Marin against the State of California.

The present bill directs the Controller to draw his warrant in favor of the County of Marin for the sum of $3,046.75, and is to take effect from July 1st of the present year.

As far as I am informed of the nature of this claim (which is not expressed in the present bill), it appears to be based in part, at least, upon costs incurred in the trial of convicts imprisoned in the State Prison at San Quentin. Assuming the claim to be thus partly founded, the requirements of Section 111 of the Penal Code, a properly certified statement of such costs should have been sent to the State Prison Directors.

I am informed that this claim has not been laid before the State Board of Examiners for consideration, as it should have been, and inasmuch as the claim has not been presented, as required by Section 111 of the Penal Code, I am obliged to disapprove of it for that reason, as well as for the further reason that it is made payable next July, instead of after January, 1902, when the revenues from the present year are received.

HENRY T. GAGE,
Governor of the State of California.

"HON. HENRY T. GAGE, Governor of the State of California, Sacramento, California:

We will see you after you have examined the report with reference to printing the same, which, under all the circumstances, we do not now consider necessary.

PETITIONS.

The following petitions were presented by Senator Shortridge, and ordered printed in the Journal down to and including the tenth name:

To the HON. CHARLES M. SHORTRIDGE, Senator representing Senatorial District No. 31:

DEAR SIR: A bill was presented in the Legislature at Sacramento by Senator Nelson of San Francisco, on or about January 29, 1901, in relation to the collection of a license tax on the business of selling liquors. The provisions of this bill are such (especially Sections 3 and 4) that if passed by the Legislature each city and county in the State will be handed over into the power of one man in each of these communities, viz: the tax collector. To pass such a measure, irrespective of the sentiments of these several communities on the question of license or no license, would be, we consider, both un-American and unjust. We, therefore, your constituents, request that you vote against this bill, to the end it may not become a law.

A. J. Hanson, C. Thackeray, W. H. Blodgett, W. H. Surve, Jerome B. Liscott, F. G. Hanger, F. R. Capp, J. C. Lloyd, E. C. Holbrook, L. T. Cook—from Campbell, Santa Clara County.

Also, a like petition from Palo Alto, with twenty-seven names thereon.

The People of the State of California, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. Section four of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 4. The rule of the common law, that statutes in derogation thereof are to be strictly construed, has no application to this code. The code establishes the law of this state respecting the subjects to which it relates, and its provisions and all proceedings under it are to be liberally construed, with a view to effect its objects and to promote justice.

SEC. 2. Section five of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 5. The provisions of this code, so far as they are substantially the same as existing statutes, or the common law, must be regarded as continuations thereof, and not as new enactments.

SEC. 3. Section eight of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 4. Section nine of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 9. All other days than those mentioned in the last section are to be deemed business days for all purposes.

The following words have in this code the signification attached to them in this section, unless otherwise apparent from the context:

1. The word "property" includes property real and personal;
2. The words "real property" are coextensive with lands, tenements, and hereditaments;

No statute, law, or rule is continued in force because it is consistent with the provisions of this code on the same subject; but in all cases provided for by this code, all statutes, laws, and rules heretofore in force in this state, whether consistent or not with the provisions of this code, unless expressly continued in force by it, are repealed or abrogated. This repeal or abrogation does not revive any former law heretofore repealed, nor does it affect any right already existing or accrued, or any action or proceeding already taken, except as in this code provided, nor does it affect any private statute not expressly repealed.

SEC. 7. Section twenty-six of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

The periods specified in the preceding section must be calculated from the first minute of the day on which persons are born to the same minute of the corresponding day completing the period of minority. Section 40. After his incapacity has been judicially determined, a person of unsound mind can make no conveyance or other contract, nor delegate any power, nor waive any right, until his restoration to capacity. But a certificate from the medical superintendent of the institution to which such person may have been committed, showing that such person has been discharged therefrom, cured and restored to reason, establishes the presumption of legal capacity in such person from the time of such discharge.

Section 68. Marriage must be licensed, solemnized, authenticated, and recorded as provided in this article; but non-compliance with its provisions by others than a party to a marriage does not invalidate it.

SEC. 20. Section sixty-nine of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 69. All persons about to be joined in marriage must first obtain a license therefor from the county clerk of the county in which the marriage is to be celebrated, showing:

1. The identity of the parties;

2. Their real and full names and places of residence;

3. Their ages, if minors, or that they are over the ages of eighteen and twenty-one respectively, if adults;

4. If the male is under the age of twenty-one, or the female under the age of eighteen years, the consent of the father, mother, or guardian, or of the one having charge of such person, if such consent is given; or that such nonaged person has been previously, but is not at the time, married. For the purpose of ascertaining these facts, the clerk is required to receive affidavits or to examine parties and witnesses on oath, and reduce such examination to writing, to be by them subscribed. If the male is under the age of twenty-one years, or the female under the age of eighteen, and such person has not been previously married, no license must be issued by the clerk, unless the consent in writing of the parents of the person under age, or of one of such parents, or of his or her guardian, or of one having charge of such person, is presented to him; and such consent must be filed by the clerk. No license must be issued authorizing the marriage of a white person with a negro, mulatto, or mongolian.

SEC. 21. Section seventy of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 70. Marriage may be solemnized by either a justice of the supreme court, judge of the superior court, a justice of the peace, police judge, priest, or minister of the gospel of any denomination.

SEC. 22. Section seventy-four of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 74. He must, within thirty days after the marriage, file such license and certificate with the county recorder, and at any time, while they remain in his possession, he must, at the request of either party, make and deliver to him or her, a certified copy thereof.

SEC. 23. Section seventy-nine of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 24. Section seventy-nine and a half of said code is hereby numbered seventy-nine a, and as so numbered shall read:

Section 79a. The provisions of this chapter, so far as they relate to the solemnizing of marriages, are not applicable to members of any particular religious denomination having, as such, any peculiar mode of entering the marriage relation; but such marriages must be declared, as provided in section seventy-six, and be acknowledged and recorded, as provided in section seventy-seven. Where a marriage is declared as provided in said section seventy-six, the husband must file said declaration with the county recorder within thirty days after such marriage, and upon receiving the same the county recorder must record the same; and if the husband fails to make such declaration and file the same for record, as herein provided, he is liable to the same penalties as any person authorized to solemnize marriages, who fails to make the return of such solemnization as provided by law.

SEC. 25. Section eighty-four of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 84. A judgment of nullity of marriage does not affect the legitimacy of children begotten before the judgment.

SEC. 26. Section ninety-four of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 94. Extreme cruelty is the wrongful infliction of grievous bodily injury or grievous mental suffering upon the other by one party to the marriage.

SEC. 27. Section one hundred and six of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 106. Habitual intemperance is that degree of intemperance from the use of intoxicants which disqualifies the person a great portion of the time from properly attending to business, or which would reasonably inflict a course of great mental anguish upon the innocent party.

SEC. 28. Section one hundred and twenty-three of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 123. Condonation of a cause of divorce, shown in the answer as a recriminatory defense, is a bar to such defense, unless the condonation is revoked, as provided in section one hundred and twenty-one.

SEC. 29. Section one hundred and thirty-six of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 136. Though judgment of divorce is denied, the court may, in an action for divorce, provide for the maintenance by the husband of the wife and children of the marriage, or any of them.

SEC. 30. Section one hundred and thirty-seven of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 137. While an action for divorce is pending the court may, in its discretion, require the husband to pay as alimony any money necessary to enable the wife to support herself or her children, or to prosecute or defend the action. When the husband wilfully deserts or abandons the wife, or when entitled to a divorce from him for any cause, she may, without applying for a divorce, maintain in the superior court an action against him for permanent support and maintenance of herself, or of herself and children. During the pendency of such action the court may, in its discretion, require the husband to pay as alimony any money necessary for the prosecution of the action and for support and maintenance, and execution may issue therefor in the discretion of the court. The final judgment in such action may be enforced by the court by such order or orders as in its discretion it may from time to time deem necessary, and such order or orders may be varied, altered, or revoked at the discretion of the court. If the existence of the marriage is denied, no alimony pendente lite must be allowed, until upon a hearing for that purpose, had after due notice, the court finds from the evidence the fact of the existence of the marriage. Such hearing and finding, however, must not affect the trial of the action upon the merits, or the judgment rendered thereon.

SEC. 31. Section one hundred and forty-four of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 32. Section one hundred and forty-six of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 146. In case of the dissolution of the marriage by the decree of a court of competent jurisdiction, the community property and the homestead must be assigned as follows:

1. If the decree is rendered on the ground of adultery or extreme cruelty, the community property must be assigned to the respective parties in such proportions as the court, from all the facts of the case, and the condition of the parties, may deem just; but in no event must less than one half thereof be awarded to the innocent party;

2. If the decree is rendered on any other ground than that of adultery or extreme cruelty, the community property must be equally divided between the parties;

3. If a homestead has been selected from the community property, it may be assigned to the innocent party, either absolutely, or for a limited period, subject, in the latter case, to the future disposition of the court, or it may, in the discretion of the court, be divided, or be sold and the proceeds divided;

4. If a homestead has been selected from the separate property of either, it must be assigned to the former owner of such property, subject to the power of the court to assign it for a limited period to the innocent party.

SEC. 33. Section one hundred and sixty-one of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 161. A husband and wife may hold property as joint tenants,*tenants by entireties, tenants in common, or as community property.

SEC. 34. Section one hundred and sixty-four of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 164. All other property acquired after marriage by either husband or wife, or both, is community property; but whenever any property is conveyed, or transferred to, or otherwise placed in the name of, a married woman, by an instrument in writing, the presumption is that the title is thereby vested in her as her separate property. And in case the conveyance is to such married woman and to her husband, or to her and any other person, the presumption is that the married woman takes the part conveyed to her, as tenant in common, unless a different intention is expressed in the instrument, and the presumptions in this section mentioned are conclusive in favor of a purchaser or incumbrancer in good faith and for a valuable consideration. And in cases where a married woman or a widow has conveyed, or shall hereafter convey, real property, her husband, or his heirs or assigns, are barred from commencing or maintaining any action to show that such real property was community property, or to recover the same, as follows: As to conveyances made prior to March fourth, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven, one year after such making; and as to conveyances made after such date, one year from the filing for record in the recorder's office of such conveyances respectively.

SEC. 35. Section one hundred and seventy of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 170. The separate property of the husband is not liable for the debts of the wife.

SEC. 36. Section one hundred and ninety-three of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 193. All children born in wedlock are presumed to be legitimate. The issue of all marriages null in law, or dissolved by divorce, are legitimate.

SEC. 37. Section two hundred and twenty-four of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 224. A legitimate child cannot be adopted without the consent of its parents, if living; nor an illegitimate child without the consent of its mother, if living; except that consent is not necessary from a father or mother deprived of civil rights, or adjudged guilty of adultery or cruelty, and for either cause divorced, or adjudged to be habitually intemperate in the use of intoxicants, or who has been judicially deprived of the custody of the child on account of cruelty or neglect; neither is the consent of any one necessary in the case of any abandoned child: provided, however, that any such child, being a half orphan, and kept and maintained in any orphan asylum in this state for more than two years, may be adopted with the consent of the managers of such orphans' home without the consent of the parent, unless such parent has paid toward the expenses of maintenance of such half orphan at least a reasonable sum during the said time, if able so to do.

SEC. 38. Section two hundred and twenty-six of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 226. Any person desiring to adopt a child may, for that purpose, petition the superior court of the county in which the petitioner resides. The person adopting a child, and the child adopted, and the other persons, if within or residents of this state, whose consent is necessary, must appear before the court, and the necessary consent must thereupon be signed and an agreement executed by the person adopting, to the effect that the child shall be adopted and treated in all respects as his own lawful child should be treated. If the persons whose consent is necessary are not within or are not residents of this state, then their written consent, duly proved or acknowledged, according to sections eleven hundred and eighty-two and eleven hundred and eighty-three, must be filed in said superior court at the time of the application for adoption.

SEC. 39. Section two hundred and twenty-seven of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 227. The court must examine all persons appearing before it pursuant to the last section, each separately, and if satisfied that the interests of the child will be promoted by the adoption, it must make an order declaring that the child shall thenceforth be regarded and treated in all respects as the child of the person adopting. The petition, agreement, consent, and order must be filed and registered in the office of the county clerk in the same manner as papers in other special proceedings

SEC. 40. Section two hundred and thirty of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 230. The father of an illegitimate child, by publicly and in a writing signed by him in the presence of a competent subscribing witness, acknowledging it as his own and, if married, by receiving it as such into his family with the consent of his wife, thereby adopts it as such; and such child is thereupon deemed for all purposes legitimate from the time of its birth. The foregoing provisions of this chapter do not apply to such an adoption.

SEC. 41. Section two hundred and forty-two of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 42. Section two hundred and forty-three of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 43. Section two hundred and forty-four of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 44. Section two hundred and forty-five of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 45. Section two hundred and forty-six of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 246. In awarding the custody of a minor, or in appointing a general guardian, the court or officer is to be guided by the following considerations:

1. By what appears to be for the best interest of the child in respect to its temporal and its mental and moral welfare; and if the child is of a sufficient age to form an intelligent preference, the court may consider that preference in determining the question;

2. As between parents adversely claiming the custody or guardianship, neither parent is entitled to it as of right; but other things being equal, if the child is of tender years, it should be given to the mother; if it is of an age to require education and preparation for labor or business, then to the father;

3. If two persons equally entitled to the custody in other respects, preference is to be given as follows:

(1) To a parent;

(2) To one who was indicated by the wishes of a deceased parent;

(3) To one who already stands in the position of a trustee of a fund to be applied to the child's support;

(4) To a relative;

4. Any parent who knowingly or wilfully abandons, or having the ability so to do, fails to maintain his minor child under the age of fourteen years, forfeits the guardianship of such child; and any parent or guardian who knowingly permits his child or ward to remain for the space of one year in any orphan asylum of this state, wherein such child is supported by charity, and who, during such period, fails to give notice in writing to the managers or officers of such asylum that he is such parent or guardian, abandons and forever forfeits all right to the guardianship, care, custody, and control of such child. The officers and managers of any orphan asylum having any such abandoned child in its care have the preferred right to the guardianship of such child.

SEC. 46. Section two hundred and forty-seven of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 47. Section two hundred and forty-eight of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 48. Section two hundred and forty-nine of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 49. Section two hundred and fifty-five of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 50. Section two hundred and fifty-eight of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 51. Section two hundred and sixty-four of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 264. Every minor of the age of fourteen years or upwards may be bound by indenture as an apprentice to any mechanical trade or art or the occupation of farming to the age of eighteen years, if a female, or to the age of twenty-one years, if a male.

SEC. 52. Section two hundred and sixty-five of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 265. A minor, with his consent, may be bound by his father, or, in case of his death or incompetency, or where he has wilfully abandoned his family for one year without making suitable provision for their support, or is habitually intemperate in the use of intoxicants, or is a vagrant, then by his mother or legal guardian. An executor, who, by the will of the father, is directed to bring up a child to a trade or calling, has power to bind by indenture in like manner as the father might have done, if living. If a child is illegitimate, the mother alone has power to bind him. If a minor has no parent or guardian competent to act for him, he may bind himself, with the approval of the superior court of the county wherein he resides. If the mother of a minor, whether legitimate or illegitimate, marries after his birth, she cannot bind him without the approval of such superior court.

SEC. 53. Section two hundred and sixty-six of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 266. Every indenture of apprenticeship must be executed in duplicate, must state the age of the minor, and, except as hereinafter provided, must show that he consented thereto, must be signed by him and the person binding and the master, and when made with the approval of the superior court, a certified copy of the order of approval must be attached to the indenture. One copy of the indenture must be delivered to the master and the other kept for the use of the minor by his parent or guardian when executed by him, or, when made with the approval of the court, it must be filed and deposited with the clerk for safe keeping for the use of the minor. No indenture binds the minor after the default of the master, but thereafter the minor may be bound anew. Every indenture entered into otherwise than as herein provided is, as against the apprentice, absolutely void.

SEC. 54. Section two hundred and sixty-seven of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 267. Facts of incapacity, desertion, habitual intemperance, and vagrancy must be decided in said court by a jury, before the indenture can take effect, and an indorsement on the indenture, under seal of the court, that the charge or charges are proved, is sufficient evidence of the mother's power to give such consent; but if the jury does not find the charge or charges to be true, the person at whose instance such proceedings may have been had must pay all costs attending the same.

SEC. 55. Section two hundred and sixty-eight of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 268. When a minor is poor, homeless, chargeable to the county or state, or an outcast who has no visible means of obtaining an honest livelihood, the superior court may, with his consent, bind him as an apprentice during his minority. Proceedings therefor may be instituted by any citizen, and no fee must be charged by any officer for any act in connection therewith. In all indentures by the court for binding out an orphan or homeless minor as an apprentice there must be inserted, among other things, a clause to the following effect: that the master to whom such minor is bound must cause him to be taught to read and write and the ground rules of arithmetic, ratio and proportion, and must give him the requisite instruction in the different branches of his trade or calling, and, at the expiration of his term of service, must give him or her fifty dollars in gold, and two whole new suits of clothes, to be worth in the aggregate at least sixty dollars gold.

SEC. 56. Section two hundred and sixty-nine of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 269. A master must not remove his apprentice out of the state, and must pay and deliver to him the money, clothes, and other property to which he is entitled under the indenture of apprenticeship, to be held by him as his sole property.

SEC. 57. Section two hundred and seventy of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 270. Parents and guardians and such court must, from time to time, inquire into the treatment of children bound by them respectively, or with their approval and the judges of such courts are responsible for the charge of apprentices bound by a court or with its approval, and must defend them from all cruelty, neglect, breach of contract, or misconduct on the part of their masters.

SEC. 58. Section two hundred and seventy-one of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 271. The superior court must hear the complaints of apprentices who reside within the county against their masters, alleging undeserved or immoderate correction, insufficient allowance of food, raiment, or lodging, want of instruction in the different branches of their trade or calling, or that they are in danger of being removed out of the state, or any violation of the indenture of apprenticeship, and the court must hear and determine such case and make such order therein as will relieve the party in the future.

SEC. 59. Section two hundred and seventy-two of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 272. The superior court has power, where circumstances require it, to discharge an apprentice from his apprenticeship, and, in case any money or other thing has been paid or contracted to be paid by either party in relation to the apprenticeship, the court must make such order concerning the same as seems just and reasonable. If the apprentice so discharged was originally bound by the superior court, it must, if found necessary, again bind such minor, if under age.

SEC. 60. Section two hundred and seventy-three of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 273. Every master is liable to an action on the indenture for a breach of any covenant thereof on his part. All damages recovered in such action, after deducting necessary charges in its prosecution, belong to the minor, and must be applied and appropriated to his use by the person recovering it in his behalf and must be paid to the minor, if a male, at the age of twenty-one years, and if a female, at the age of eighteen years. If no action is brought during the minority of the apprentice, it may be commenced by him in his own name at any time within two years after his coming of age.

SEC. 61. Section two hundred and seventy-four of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 274. An apprentice who is guilty of any gross misbehavior, or refusal to do his duty, or wilful neglect thereof, is liable to the complaint of his master in the superior court of the county wherein the apprentice resides. Such complaint must set forth the circumstances of the case, and have attached thereto a citation, signed by the clerk of the court, requiring him and all persons who have covenanted in his behalf to appear and answer the complaint within ten days after the service thereof. The complaint and citation must be served in the manner required for serving civil process. When the parties have answered, or when, though they have not answered, the time therefor allowed after the service of the complaint has expired, the court must proceed to hear and determine the cause, and, if the evidence warrants it, may render judgment that the master be discharged from the contract of apprenticeship and for costs of suit. Such costs may be recovered from the parent or guardian of the minor, if there is any who signed the indenture, and execution therefor may issue accordingly. If there is no parent or guardian liable for such costs, execution may be issued therefor against the minor, or the amount thereof may be recovered in an action against him after he arrives at full age. He is also liable to the master in an action on the indenture for the breach of any covenant on the part of the apprentice contained therein, committed before the master was discharged from the indenture.

SEC. 62. Section two hundred and seventy-five of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 275. It is unlawful for any person to entice, counsel or persuade to run away any apprentice, or to employ, harbor, or conceal him, knowing him to be a runaway. Any party so offending is guilty of a misdemeanor, and may be fined not less than fifty dollars and not more than one hundred dollars, to be recovered by the master in any court having jurisdiction.

SEC. 63. Section two hundred and seventy-six of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 276. Whenever any master wishes to remove out of the state, or to quit his trade or business, he must appear with his apprentice before the superior court of the county in which the latter resides, and if the court is satisfied that the master has done justice to the apprentice for the time he has had charge of him, the court has power to discharge the master from the indenture and to again bind the apprentice, if necessary.

SEC. 64. Section two hundred and ninety-nine of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 299. No corporation hereafter formed must purchase, locate, or hold property in any county in this state, other than the county in which its original articles of incorporation are filed, without filing a copy of the copy of its articles of incorporation filed in the office of the secretary of state, duly certified by such secretary of state, in the office of the county clerk of the county in which such property is situated, within sixty days after such purchase or location is made. Every corporation now in existence, whether formed under the provisions of this code or not, must, within ninety days after the passage of this section, file such certified copy of the copy of its articles of incorporation in the office of the county clerk of every county in this state in which it holds any property, except the county where the original articles of incorporation are filed; and if any corporation hereafter acquires any property in a county other than that in which it now holds property, it must, within ninety days thereafter, file with the clerk of such county such certified copy of the copy of its articles of incorporation. The copies filed with the several county clerks, and certified copies thereof, have the same force and effect in evidence as the originals. Any corporation failing to comply with the provisions of this section cannot maintain or defend any action or proceeding in relation to such property, its rents, issues, or profits, until such articles of incorporation, and such certified copy of its articles of incorporation, and such certified copy of the copy of its articles of incorporation, are filed at the places directed by the general law and this section; provided, that all corporations are liable in damages for any and all loss that may arise by the failure or such corporation to perform any of the foregoing duties within the time mentioned in this section; and provided further, that the said damages may be recovered in an action brought in any court of this state of competent jurisdiction, by any party or parties suffering the same.

SEC. 65. Section three hundred and one of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 301. Every corporation formed under this title may adopt a code of by-laws for its government not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of this state. The assent of stockholders representing a majority of all the subscribed capital stock, or of a majority of the members, if there is no capital stock, is necessary to adopt by-laws, if they are adopted at a meeting called for that purpose; and in the event of such meeting being called, two weeks' notice of the same by advertisement in some newspaper published in the county in which the principal place or business of the corporation is located, or if none is published therein, then in a paper published in an adjoining county, must be given by order of the acting president. The written assent of the holders of two thirds of the stock, or of two thirds of the members, if there is no capital stock, is effectual to adopt a code of by-laws without a meeting for that purpose.

SEC. 66. Section three hundred and two of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 302. The directors of a corporation must be elected annually by the stockholders or members, and if no provision is made in the by-laws for the time of election, the election must be held on the first Tuesday in June. Notice of such election must be given as prescribed in section three hundred and one.

SEC. 67. Section three hundred and three of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 303. A corporation may, by its by-laws, provide for:

1. The time, place, and manner of calling and conducting its meetings, and may dispense with notice of all regular meetings of stockholders or directors;
2. The number of stockholders or members constituting a quorum;

3. The mode of voting by proxy;
4. The qualifications and duties of directors, and also the time of their annual election, and the mode and manner of giving notice thereof;
5. The compensation and duties of officers;
6. The manner of election and the tenure of office of all officers other than the directors;
7. Suitable penalties for violations of by-laws, not exceeding, in any case, one hundred dollars for any one offense;
8. The newspaper in which all notices of the meetings of stockholders or board of directors, notice of which is required, must be published, which must be some newspaper published in the county where the principal place of business of the corporation is located, or if none is published therein, then in a newspaper published in an adjoining county; provided, that when the by-laws prescribe the newspaper in which said publication shall be made, if from any cause, at the time any publication is desired to be made, the publication of such newspaper shall have ceased, the board of directors may, by an order entered on the records of the corporation, direct the publication to be made in some other newspaper published in the county, or if none is published therein, then in an adjoining county.

SEC. 68. Section three hundred and four of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 304. All by-laws adopted must be certified by a majority of the directors and secretary of the corporation, and copied in a legible hand, in some book kept in the office of the corporation, to be known as the "book of by-laws," and the book must then be opened to the inspection of the public during office hours each day except holidays. The by-laws may be repealed or amended, or new by-laws may be adopted, at the annual meeting, or at any other meeting of the stockholders or members, called for that purpose by the directors, by a vote representing two thirds of the subscribed stock, or by two thirds of the members. The written assent of the holders of two thirds of the stock, or two thirds of the members if there is no capital stock, is effectual to repeal or amend any by-law, or to adopt additional by-laws. The power to repeal and amend the by-laws, and adopt new by-laws, may, by a similar vote at any such meeting, or similar written assent, be delegated to the board of directors. The power, when delegated, may be revoked by a similar vote, at any regular meeting of the stockholders or members. Whenever any amendment or new by law is adopted, it must be copied in the book of by-laws with the original by-laws, and immediately after them. If any by-law is repealed, the fact of repeal, with the date of the meeting at which the repeal was enacted, or written assent was filed, must be stated in said book. Until copied or stated as hereinbefore required, no by-law, nor any amendment or repeal thereof, can be enforced against any person, other than the corporation, not having actual notice thereof.

SEC. 69. Section three hundred and nine of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 309. The directors of corporations must not make dividends, except from the surplus profits arising from the business thereof; nor must they create any debts beyond their subscribed capital stock; nor must they divide, withdraw, or pay to the stockholders, or any of them, any part of the capital stock, except as hereinafter provided, nor reduce or increase the capital stock, except as herein specially provided. For a violation of the provisions of this section, the directors under whose administration the same may have happened (except those who may have caused their dissent therefrom to be entered at large on the minutes of the directors at the time, or were not present when the same did happen) are, in their individual or private capacity, jointly and severally liable to the corporation, and to the creditors thereof, to the full amount of the capital stock so divided, withdrawn, paid out, or reduced, or debt contracted; and no statute of limitation is a bar to any suit against such directors for any sums for which they are liable by this section; provided, however, that where a corporation has been heretofore or may hereafter be formed for the purpose, among other things, of acquiring, holding, and selling real estate, water, and water rights, the directors of such corporation may, with the consent of stockholders representing two thirds of the capital stock thereof, given at a meeting called for that purpose, divide among the stockholders the land, water, or water rights so by such corporation held, in the proportions to which their holdings of such stock at the time of such division entitle them. All conveyances made by the corporation in pursuance of this section must be made and received subject to the debts of such corporation existing at the date of the conveyance thereof. Nothing herein prohibits a division and distribution of the capital stock of any corporation which remains after the payment of all its debts, upon its dissolution, or the expiration of its term of existence.

SEC. 70. Section three hundred and ten of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 310. The board of directors may be removed from office by a vote of two thirds of the members, or of stockholders holding two thirds of the capital stock, at a general meeting held after previous notice of the time and place, and of the intention to propose such removal. Meetings of stockholders for this purpose may be called by the president, or by a majority of the directors, or by members or stockholders holding at least one half of the votes. Such calls must be in writing, and addressed to the secretary, who must thereupon give notice of the time, place, and object of the meeting, and by whose order it is called. If the secretary refuses to give the notice, or if there is none, the call may be addressed directly to the members or stockholders, and be served as a notice, in which case it must specify the time and place of meeting. The notice must be given in the manner provided in section three hundred and one of this title, unless other express provision has been made therefor in the by-laws. In case the board of directors is so removed, a new board may be elected at the same meeting.

SEC. 71. Section three hundred and eleven of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 311. Whenever, from any cause, there is no person authorized to call or to preside at a meeting of a corporation, any justice of the peace of the county where such corporation is established may, on written application of three or more of the stockholders or of the members thereof, issue a warrant to one of the stockholders or members, directing him to call a meeting of the corporation, by giving the notice required, and the justice may, in the same warrant, direct such person to preside at such meeting until a clerk is chosen and qualified, if there is no other officer present legally authorized to preside thereat. The application of a number of stockholders less than three, but holding a majority of the capital stock, has the same effect as an application by three or more stockholders or members.

SEC. 72. Section three hundred and twelve of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 312. At all elections or votes had for any purpose there must be a majority of the subscribed capital stock, or of the members, represented, either in person or by proxy in writing. Every person acting therein, in person or by proxy or representative, must be a member thereof, or a stockholder having stock in his own name on the stock books of the corporation at least ten days prior to the election. Any vote or election had other than in accordance with the provisions of this article is voidable at the instance of absent or any stockholders or members, and may be set aside by petition to the superior court of the county where the same was held. Any regular or called meeting of the stockholders or members may adjourn from day to day, or from time to time, if for any reason there is not present a majority of the subscribed stock or members, or no election had—such adjournment and the reasons therefor being recorded in the journal of proceedings of the board of directors.

SEC. 73. Section three hundred and fourteen of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 314. If from any cause an election does not take place on the day appointed by law or the by-laws, or otherwise, it may be held on any day thereafter as is provided for in such by-laws, or to which such election may be adjourned or ordered by the directors. If an election has not been held at the appointed time, and no adjourned or other meeting for the purpose has been ordered by the directors, a meeting may be called by the stockholders as provided in section three hundred and ten.

SEC. 74. Section three hundred and fifteen of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 315. Upon the application of any person or body corporate aggrieved by any election held by any corporate body, the superior court of the county in which such election is held must proceed forthwith to hear the allegations and proofs of the parties, or otherwise inquire into the matters of complaint, and thereupon confirm the election, order a new one, or direct such other relief in the premises as accords with right and justice. Upon filing the petition, and before any further proceedings are had under this section, five days' notice of the hearing must be given, under the direction of the court or the judge thereof, to the adverse party, or those to be affected thereby.

SEC. 75. Section three hundred and twenty-one a of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 321*a*. Every corporation may change its principal place of business from one place to another in the same county, or from one city or county to another city or county within this state. Before such change is made, the consent, in writing, of the holders of two thirds of the capital stock must be obtained and filed in the office of the corporation. When such consent is obtained and filed, notice of the intended removal or change must be published, at least once a week for three successive weeks, in some newspaper published in the county wherein said principal place of business is situated, if there is one published therein; if not, in a newspaper of an adjoining county, giving the name of the county or city where it is situated, and that to which it is intended to remove it. A copy of such consent, certified by the secretary of such corporation, together with a certified copy of the resolution of the board of directors directing such publication, and an affidavit showing the due publication of such notice, must be filed in the office of the county clerk of the county to which such place of business is changed. From the time of filing such papers, the place of business of such corporation is deemed to have been changed to such county.

SEC. 76. Section three hundred and twenty-two of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 322. Each stockholder of a corporation is individually and personally liable for such proportion of all its debts and liabilities contracted or incurred during the time he was a stockholder as the amount of stock or shares owned by him bears to the whole of the subscribed capital stock or shares of the corporation. Any creditor of the corporation may institute joint or several actions against any of its stockholders, for the proportion of his claim payable by each, and in such action the court must ascertain the proportion of the claim or debt for which each defendant is liable, and a several judgment must be rendered against each, in conformity therewith. If any stockholder pays his proportion of any debt due from the corporation, incurred while he was such stockholder, he is relieved from any further personal liability for such debt, and if an action has been brought against him upon such debt, it must be dismissed, as to him, upon his paying the costs, or such proportion thereof as may be properly chargeable against him. The liability of each stockholder is determined by the amount of stock or shares owned by him at the time the debt or liability was incurred; and such liability is not released by any subsequent transfer of stock. The term stockholder, as used in this section, applies not only to such persons as appear by the books of the corporation to be such, but also to every equitable owner of stock, although the same appears on the books in the name of another; and also to every person who has advanced the installments or purchase money of stock in the name of a minor, so long as the latter remains a minor; and also to every guardian, or other trustee, who voluntarily invests any trust funds in the stock. Trust funds in the hands of a guardian, or trustee, are not liable under the provisions of this section, by reason of any such investment; nor must the person for whose benefit the investment is made be responsible in respect to the stock until he becomes competent and able to control the same; but the responsibility of the guardian or trustee making the investment continues until that period. Stock held as collateral security, or by a trustee, or in any other representative capacity, does not make the holder thereof a stockholder within the meaning of this section, except in the cases above mentioned, so as to charge him with any proportion of the debts or liabilities of the corporation; but the pledgor, or person or estate represented, is to be deemed the stockholder, as respects such liability. In a corporation having no capital stock, each member is individually and personally liable for an equal share of its debts and liabilities, and similar actions may be brought against him, either alone or jointly with other members, to enforce such liability as by this section may be brought against one or more stockholders, and similar judgments may be rendered. The liability of each stockholder of a corporation formed under the laws of any other state or territory of the United States, or of any foreign country, and doing business within this state, is the same as the liability of a stockholder of a corporation created under the constitution and laws of this state.

Sec. 77. Section three hundred and twenty-three of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 323. All corporations for profit must issue certificates for stock when fully paid up, signed by the president and secretary, and may provide, in their by-laws, for issuing certificates prior to full payment, under such restrictions and for such purposes as their by-laws may provide, but any certificate issued prior to full payment must show on its face what amount has been paid thereon.

Sec. 78. Section three hundred and twenty-five of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 325. Shares of stock in corporations standing on the books of the corporation in the name of a married woman may be transferred by her, her agent or attorney, without the signature of her husband, and in the same manner as if such married woman were a femme sole. All dividends payable upon any of such shares of stock may be paid to her, her agent or attorney, in the same manner as if she were unmarried; and any proxy or power given by her, touching any of such shares, is valid and binding, and neither it nor any receipt for dividends need be signed by her husband.

Sec. 79. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered three hundred and twenty-eight and to read as follows:

Section 328. Whenever a certificate of stock or of shares in a corporation organized under the laws of this state has been lost or destroyed, the owner thereof may bring an action against such corporation in the superior court of the county in which is located its principal place of business, for the purpose of obtaining a new or duplicate certificate. If by the books of the corporation the stock stands in the name of a person other than the plaintiff, or if by such books it appears that some other person claims or has some right, title, or interest in, or lien upon, such stock, all such persons must be made parties defendant with the corporation. Summons must be issued and served as in other civil actions, and in addition thereto, the court must direct its clerk to issue and cause to be published, at least once a week for four successive weeks, in some newspaper published in the county, a notice setting forth the pendency of the action, the names of the parties thereto, the court in which it is pending, the name of the corporation issuing the stock, the number of the certificate and the number of the shares, the name of the person mentioned as stockholder in the certificate, and notifying all persons claiming said shares, or any of them, or any interest or lien therein or thereon, to be and appear before the court at a time and place to be designated in the notice not less than thirty days from the first publication thereof, then and there to show cause why a new certificate should not be directed to be issued to the plaintiff, and to set forth their rights in or claim to such shares. If any one appears and answers or intervenes in the action, it must proceed to trial as in other civil cases, and the court must enter such judgment as from the facts established may be proper; but if no one appears within the time designated in such notice, nor within the time allowed by law after the service of such summons, the court must hear such evidence as may be offered in support of the allegations of the complaint, and make and file its decision thereon, and thereupon may enter its judgment canceling the lost or destroyed certificate and directing the corporation, upon payment to it of all costs incurred by it in the premises and without costs against the corporation, to issue to the plaintiff a new or duplicate certificate. After the issuing of a new certificate by the corporation pursuant to any judgment in such action, no action can ever be maintained by any person against the corporation in reference to said lost or destroyed certificate or the shares represented thereby, and thereafter any such action is forever barred as against the corporation.

SEC. 80. Section three hundred and sixty of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 360. No corporation shall acquire or hold any more real property than may be reasonably necessary for the transaction of its business, or the construction of its works, except as otherwise specially provided. A corporation may acquire real property, as provided in title seven, part three, of the Code of Civil Procedure, when needed for any of the uses and purposes mentioned in said title. By a unanimous vote of all the directors at any regular meeting, any corporation existing, or hereafter to be formed under the laws of this state, may acquire and hold the land and building on and in which its business is carried on, and may improve the same to any extent required for the convenient transaction of its business.

SEC. 81. Section three hundred and sixty-one of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 82. Section three hundred and sixty-two of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 362. Any corporation may amend its articles of incorporation by a majority vote of its board of directors or trustees, and by a vote or written assent of the stockholders representing at least two thirds of the subscribed capital stock of such corporation, or the written assent of a majority of the members if there is no capital stock; and a copy of such articles of incorporation as thus amended, duly certified to be correct by the president and secretary of the board of directors or trustees of such corporation, must be filed in the office where the original articles were filed, and a copy thereof, certified by the county clerk, must be filed by the secretary of state; and from the time of so filing such copy of amended articles of incorporation, such corporation has the same powers, and it and the stockholders or members thereof are thereafter subject to the same liabilities as if such amendment had been embraced in the original articles of incorporation; the time of the existence of such corporation must not be by such amendment extended beyond the time fixed in the original articles of incorporation; such original and amended articles of incorporation must together contain all the matters and things required by the law under which the original articles of incorporation were executed and filed. Nothing contained in this section must be construed to cure or amend any defect existing in any original articles of incorporation heretofore filed in that such articles did not set forth the matters required to make the same valid at the time of filing. If the assent of two thirds of said stockholders, or of the majority of members where there is no capital stock, to such amendment has not been obtained, a notice of the intention to make such amendment must first be published in some newspaper published in the county in which the principal place of business of the corporation is located, for fifteen days if in a daily, or five successive issues if in a weekly newspaper, before the filing of the proposed amendment. Nothing contained in this section must be construed to authorize any corporation to diminish its capital stock.

SEC. 83. Section three hundred and sixty-three of said code, approved March fifth, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, is hereby repealed.

SEC. 84. Section three hundred and eighty-four of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 85. Section three hundred and eighty-eight of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 388. For the satisfaction of any judgment against any person, company, or corporation having any franchise other than the franchise of being a corporation, such franchise, and all the rights and privileges thereof, may be levied upon and sold under execution, in the same manner, and with the same effect, as any other property.

SEC. 86. Section three hundred and ninety-one of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 391. The person, company, or corporation whose franchise is sold, as in this article provided, in all other respects retains the same powers, is bound to the discharge of the same duties, and is liable to the same penalties and forfeitures, as before such sale.

SEC. 87. Section three hundred and ninety-two of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 392. Redemption from any such sale may be had as provided in the Code of Civil Procedure.

SEC. 88. Section three hundred and ninety-three of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 393. The sale of any franchise under execution must be made in the county in which the corporation has its principal place of business, or in which the property, or some portion thereof, is situated.

SEC. 89. Section three hundred and ninety-nine of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 90. Section four hundred of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 400. Unless other persons are appointed by the court, the directors or managers of the affairs of a corporation at the time of its dissolution are trustees of the creditors and stockholders or members of the corporation dissolved, and have full power to settle the affairs of the corporation.

SEC. 91. Section four hundred and one of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 401. Every corporation formed for a period less than fifty years, may, at any time prior to the expiration of the term of its corporate existence, extend such term to a period not exceeding fifty years from its formation. Such extension may be made at any meeting of the stockholders or members called by the directors expressly for considering the subject if voted by stockholders representing two thirds of the capital stock; or by two thirds of the members; or may be made upon the written assent of two thirds of the members or of stockholders representing two thirds of the capital stock. A certificate of the proceedings of the meeting upon such vote or upon such assent, must be signed by the chairman and secretary of the meeting and a majority of the directors, and be filed in the office of the county clerk where the original articles of incorporation were filed, and a certified copy thereof in the office of the secretary of state, and thereupon the term of the corporation is extended for the specified period.

SEC. 92. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and four, to read as follows:

Section 404. The legislature may at any time amend or repeal this part, or any title, chapter, article, or section thereof, and dissolve all corporations created thereunder; but such amendment or repeal does not, nor does the dissolution of any such corporation, take away or impair any remedy given against any such corporation, its stockholders or officers, for any liability which has been previously incurred.

SEC. 93. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and five, to read as follows:

Section 405. Every corporation other than those created by or under the laws of this state must, within forty days from the time it commences to do business therein, file in the office of the secretary of state a designation of some person residing within the state upon whom process issued by authority of or under any law of this state may be served. A copy of such designation, duly certified by the secretary of state, is sufficient evidence of such appointment and of the due incorporation of such corporation. Such process may be served on the person so designated, or, in the event that no such person is designated, then on the secretary of state, and the service is a valid service on such corporation.

SEC. 94. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and six, to read as follows:

Section 406. Every corporation which complies with the provisions of this chapter is thereafter entitled to the benefit of the laws of this state, limiting the time for the commencement of civil actions, but no corporation not created by or under the laws of this state is entitled to the benefit thereof, nor can any such corporation maintain or defend any action or proceeding in any court of this state until the corporation has complied with the provisions of the preceding section. In any action or proceeding instituted against any body styled as a corporation, but not created by or under the laws of this state, evidence that such body has acted as a corporation, or employed methods usually employed by corporations, must be received by the court for the purpose of proving the existence of such corporation, the sufficiency of such evidence to be determined by the court with like effect as in other cases. Every corporation which has complied with the laws then in force, requiring it to make and file a designation of the person upon whom process against it may be served, need not make or file any further designation. Any designation heretofore or hereafter made may be revoked by the filing by the corporation with the secretary of state of a writing stating such revocation. Within forty days after the death or removal from the state of any person designated by the corporation, or after the revocation of the designation, the corporation must make a new designation, or be subject to the provisions and penalties of this chapter.

SEC. 96. Section four hundred and fourteen of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

SEC. 97. Section four hundred and fifteen of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

3. Such as is purchased at sales upon deeds of trust or judgments obtained or made for such loans or debts;

4. Such as is conveyed to it in satisfaction of debts previously contracted in the course of its business dealings.

All such real estate so acquired, which is not requisite for the accommodation of such corporation in the transaction of its business, must be sold and disposed of within five years after such corporation acquires title to the same.

SEC. 98. Section four hundred and seventeen of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 417. The directors of every insurance corporation, at such times as its by-laws provide, must make, declare, and pay to the stockholders dividends of so much of the net profits of the corporate business and interest on capital invested as to them appears advisable; but the moneys received and notes taken for premium on risks which are undetermined and outstanding at the time of making the dividend must not be treated as profits, nor divided, except as provided in chapter two of this title.

SEC. 99. Section four hundred and eighteen of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 418. If any insurance corporation is under liabilities for losses to an amount equal to its capital stock, and the president or directors, after knowing the same, make any new or further insurance, all who make such insurance, or assent thereto, are severally and jointly liable for the amount of any loss which takes place under such insurance.

SEC. 100. Section four hundred and nineteen of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 419. Every company, corporation, or association hereafter formed or organized under the laws of this state for the transaction of business in fire, marine, inland navigation, or life insurance, must have a subscribed capital stock equal to at least two hundred thousand dollars, twenty-five per cent of which must be paid in previous to the issuance of any policy, and the residue within twelve months from the day of filing the certificate of incorporation. No person, nor any company, corporation, or association organized or formed under the laws of any other state or country, must transact any such insurance business in this state, unless such person, company, corporation, or association possesses available cash assets within the United States equal to at least two hundred thousand dollars over and above all liabilities for losses reported, expenses, taxes, and reinsurance of all outstanding risks, as provided in section six hundred and two of the Political Code.

SEC. 101. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and twenty-one and to read as follows:

Section 421. Corporations organized under the laws of this state, for the transaction of business in any kind of insurance, may invest their capital and accumulations in the following named securities:

1. In the purchase of or loans upon interest-bearing bonds of the United States government;

2. In the purchase of or loans upon interest-bearing bonds of any of the states of the United States, not in default for interest on such bonds;

3. In the purchase of or loans upon interest-bearing bonds of any of the counties or incorporated cities or towns of any state or territory of the United States, not in default for interest on such bonds;

4. In loans upon unincumbered real property, worth at least one hundred per cent more than the amount loaned; or upon merchandise or cereals in warehouse, but in no instance must such loan be made in excess of seventy-five per cent of the security taken;

5. In the purchase of, or loans upon, the stock of corporations, other than mining, which have at the time of the investment a market value of not less than sixty per cent of their par value, and are rated as first-class securities; but every such purchase and loan must be approved by the vote of two thirds of the directors; and no loan must exceed fifty per cent of such market value;

6. Such corporations may, after the investment of two hundred thousand dollars in the manner provided in subdivisions one, two, three, four, and five of this section, invest the balance of their capital and any accumulations in the purchase of, or loans upon, interest-bearing first mortgage bonds of any corporations, other than mining, organized and carrying on business under the laws of the United States, or of any state or territory thereof or of the District of Columbia, not in default for interest on such bonds; provided, that a two-thirds vote of all the directors of such corporations approves such investment. It is the duty of the officers of such corporations to report quarterly on the first days of January, April, July, and October of each year, to the insurance commissioner, a list of such investments so made by them; and the insurance commissioner may, if such investments, or any of them, seem injudicious, require the sale of the same. No investment in the securities named in subdivisions one, two, three, five, and six of this section, must be made in an amount exceeding the market value of such securities at the date of such investment;

7. Corporations engaged in the business of insuring titles to real estate may, after the investment of one hundred thousand dollars in the manner provided in subdivisions one, two, three, four, five, and six of this section, invest an amount not exceeding fifty per cent of their capital stock in the preparation or purchase of the materials or plant necessary to enable them to engage in such business; and such materials, or plant, must be deemed an asset, valued at the actual cost thereof, in all statements and proceedings required by law for the ascertainment and determination of the condition of such corporations.

SEC. 102. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and twenty-two, and to read as follows:

Section 422. Corporations transacting business in insuring titles to real estate must annually set apart a sum equal to twenty-five per cent of their premiums collected during the year, which sum must be allowed to accumulate until a fund has been created amounting to ten per cent of the subscribed capital stock. Such fund must be maintained as a further security to policy-holders, and be known as the surplus fund, and if at any time such fund is impaired by reason of a loss, the amount by which it may be impaired must be restored in the manner hereinabove provided for its accumulation. The reporting of a loss must be deemed an impairment of such fund for the purposes of this section. Such corporation must not make any dividends except from profits remaining on hand after retaining unimpaired:

1. The entire subscribed capital stock;
2. The amount owing to the surplus fund, under the provisions of this section;
3. A sum sufficient to pay all losses reported, or in course of settlement, which must be in excess of the surplus fund, and all liabilities for expenses and taxes.

SEC. 103. Section four hundred and twenty-seven of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 104. Section four hundred and twenty-eight of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 428. SEC. 105. Section four hundred and thirty-one of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 106. Section four hundred and thirty-two of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 107. Section four hundred and thirty-seven of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 437. Every corporation formed for the purpose of mutual insurance on the lives or health of persons, or against accidents to persons for life or any fixed period of time, or to purchase and sell annuities, must have a capital stock of not less than one hundred thousand dollars. It must not make any insurance upon any risk or transact any other business as a corporation until its capital stock is fully paid up in cash, nor until it has also obtained a fund, to be known as a "guarantee fund," of not less than two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, as is hereinafter provided; or, if it has no capital, until it has an ascertained surplus above all liabilities of at least three hundred and fifty thousand dollars. If more than the requisite amount is subscribed, the stock must be distributed pro rata among the subscribers. Any subscription may be rejected by the board of directors or the committee thereof, either as to the whole or any part thereof, and must be, so far as rejected, without effect.

SEC. 108. Section four hundred and forty-four of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 109. Section four hundred and forty-seven of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 447. Every life insurance corporation organized under the laws of this state must, on or before the first day of February of each year, furnish the insurance commissioner the necessary data for determining the valuation of all its policies outstanding on the thirty-first day of December then next preceding. And every life insurance company organized under the laws of any other state or country, and doing business in this state, must, upon the written requisition of the commissioner, whenever the latter is authorized to make a valuation of policies, as provided in section four hundred and forty-nine, furnish him, at such time as he may designate, but not oftener than once in each year, the requisite data for determining the valuation of all its policies then outstanding. Such valuation must be based upon the rate of mortality established by the American experience life-table, and interest at four and one half per cent per annum; provided, that from and after the thirty-first day of December, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one, such valuations must be based on the rate of mortality established by the combined experience of actuaries' table of mortality, with interest at the rate of three and one half per cent per annum. When the laws of any other state or territory require of a life insurance company organized under the laws of this state a valuation of its outstanding policies by any standard of valuation different from that named in this section, the insurance commissioner is hereby authorized to make such valuation for use in such other state or territory, and to issue his certificate in accordance therewith. For the purpose of making the valuations, the insurance commissioner is authorized to employ a competent actuary, whose compensation for such valuations shall be one cent for each thousand dollars of insurance, to be paid by the respective companies whose policies are thus valued.

SEC. 110. Section four hundred and forty-eight of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 111. Section four hundred and forty-nine of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 449. When the certificate of the insurance commissioner of this state, of the valuation of the policies of a life insurance company, as provided in section four hundred and forty-seven, issued to any company organized under the laws of this state, shall not be accepted by the insurance authorities of any other state, in lieu of a valuation of the same, by the insurance officer of such other state, then every company organized under the laws of such other state doing business in this state shall be required to have a separate valuation of its policies made under the authority of the insurance commissioner of this state, such valuation to be made and the costs thereof to be the same as provided in section four hundred and forty-seven.

SEC. 112. That section four hundred and fifty of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 450. Every contract or policy of insurance, except for tontine, term, or paid-up insurance, hereafter made by any person, company, or corporation organized under the laws of this state, or under those of any other state or country, with and upon the life of a resident of this state, and delivered within this state, must contain, unless the policy contains a stipulation for term or paid-up insurance different from that hereinafter specified, a stipulation that when, after three full annual premiums have been paid on such policy, it ceases or becomes void solely by the nonpayment of any premium when due, its entire net reserve, by the American experience table of mortality, and interest at four and one half per cent yearly, less any indebtedness to the company on such policy, must be applied by such company as a single premium, at such company's published rates in force at the date of the original policy, but at the age of the insured at time of lapse, either to the purchase of non-participating term insurance for the full amount insured by such policy, or upon the written application by the owner of such policy and the surrender thereof to such company within three months from such non-payment of premium, to the purchase of a non-participating paid-up policy, payable at the time the original policy would be payable if continued in force, both kinds of insurance to be subject to the same conditions, except as to payment of premiums, as those of the original policy. It may be provided, however, in such stipulation, that no part of such term insurance shall be due or payable, unless satisfactory proofs of death are furnished to the insuring company within one year after death, and that if death occurs within three years after such nonpayment of premium, and during such term of insurance, there shall be deducted from the amount payable the sum of all the premiums that would have become due on the original policy if it had continued in force. If the reserve on endowment policies is more than enough to purchase temporary insurance, as aforesaid, to the end of the endowment term, the excess must be applied to the purchase of pure endowment insurance, payable at the end of the term, if the insured is then living. If any life insurance corporation or company delivers to any person in this state a policy of insurance upon the life of any person residing in this state, not in conformity with the provisions of this section, the right of such corporation or company to transact business in this state thereupon and thereby ceases and terminates, and the insurance commissioner must immediately revoke the certificate of such corporation or company authorizing it to do business in this state, and publish such revocation daily, for the period of two weeks, in two daily newspapers, one published in the city and county of San Francisco and the other in the city of Sacramento.

SEC. 113. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and fifty-two, and to read as follows:

1. The entire capital stock;
2. A sum sufficient to pay all losses reported or in course of settlement, and all liabilities for expenses and taxes;
3. A sum sufficient to reinsure all outstanding policies, as ascertained and determined upon the basis of the American experience table of mortality, and interest at the rate of four and one half per cent per annum.

SEC. 114. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and fifty-two a, to read as follows:

Section 452a. Associations of not exceeding one thousand persons may be formed for the purpose of paying to the nominee of any member a sum, upon the death of the member, not exceeding three dollars for each member of the association. Such association may be formed by filing a certificate in the office of the clerk of the county in which the principal place of business is situated and a like certificate in the office of the secretary of state, each of which must state the general object of the association, its principal place of business, and the names of the officers selected to hold office for the first three months, and must be signed by such officers and verified by at least three of their number.

SEC. 115. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and fifty-three, to read as follows:

Section 453. Each association provided for in this chapter may, on the death of a member, levy an assessment on the surviving members of not exceeding three dollars for each member, and pay the same to the nominee of such decedent, and may also provide for the payment of such annual payments by members as may be deemed just, but no member must be subject to any annual assessment in excess of that established when he joined the association. The association may make such by-laws not inconsistent with the laws of the state as may be necessary for its government and the transaction of its business; may, by its name, sue and be sued; loan such funds as it may have on hand; and own sufficient real estate for its business purposes and such as it may be necessary to purchase on foreclosure of its mortgages.

SEC. 116. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and fifty-three a, to read as follows:

Section 453a. Any corporation of underwriters heretofore organized and now existing, or which may be hereafter organized under the laws of this state, for the purpose of discovering and preventing fires and of saving property and human life from conflagration, and doing business within any municipal corporation of this state, has power, at its own proper cost and expense, to maintain a corps of men, with proper officers, equipped with the necessary machinery and apparatus therefor, whose duty it is so far as practicable, to discover and prevent fires and save property and human life from conflagration; and for the effective discharge of such duties, authority is hereby granted such corps to enter any building on fire, or in which property is on fire, or which such corps or any officer thereof deems to be immediately exposed to any existing fire, or in danger of taking fire from a burning building, and to remove or otherwise save and protect from conflagration or damage by water any property, during and immediately after such fire. Nothing in this chapter must be so construed as in any degree to lessen, impair, or interfere with the powers, privileges, duties, or authority of the regular fire department of such municipality; nor can any act of such corps justify any owner of any building or property in abandoning such building or property.

SEC. 117. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and fifty-three b, to read as follows:

Section 453b. Such corporation, with its officers and corps, when running to a fire with its horses, vehicles, and salvage apparatus, has the same right of way as is or may be bestowed by any ordinance of the municipality or law of this state upon the regular fire department of the municipality wherein such corporation is acting; but the rights of such fire department must always be paramount to the rights of such corporation. All ordinances now existing or which may hereafter be passed by the municipal authorities of any city and county, or of any incorporated city or town wherein such a corporation may carry on business, and all laws of this state applicable to such city and county, or city or town, for the conviction or punishment of any person or persons wilfully or carelessly obstructing the progress of the apparatus of the fire department of such city and county, or city or town, while going to a fire, or of any person or persons wilfully or carelessly injuring any animal or property of said fire department, are equally applicable to any person or persons wilfully or carelessly obstructing the progress of the apparatus of such corporation while going to a fire, and to any person or persons who wilfully or carelessly injures any animal or property of such corporation; and said laws and ordinances, and their penalties, may be enforced in the same courts and in the same manner, and with equal force and effect, as in the case of the fire department.

SEC. 118. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and fifty-three c, to read as follows:

Section 453c. In the month of July, in every year, there must be held a meeting of all corporations created for the purposes specified in this chapter; of which ten days' previous notice must be inserted in at least one daily newspaper published in the municipality where said corporation is organized or established, at which meeting each insurance company, corporation, association, underwriter, agent, person, or persons doing a fire insurance business in said municipality, whether members of said corporation or not, shall have a right to be represented, and shall be entitled to one vote. A majority of the whole number so represented has power to decide upon the question of sustaining the fire patrol organized by corporations heretofore created, or that may be hereafter created, and fixing the maximum amount of expenses which may be incurred therefor during the fiscal year next to ensue, which amount must in no case exceed two per centum of the aggregate premiums returned as received, as provided in this section, and the whole of such amount, or so much thereof as may be necessary, may be assessed upon all insurance companies, corporations, associations, underwriters, agents, person, or persons who assume risks and accept premiums for fire insurance in said municipality, as hereinbefore mentioned, in proportion to the several amounts of premiums returned, as received by each, as hereinafter provided, and such assessment is collective, by and in the name of said corporation, in any court of law in the State of California having jurisdiction, in such manner and at such time or times as said corporation may determine. In order to provide for the payment of persons employed by said corporation, and to maintain suitable rooms, and apparatus for saving life and property contemplated, said corporation is empowered to require a statement to be furnished, semi-annually, by all insurance companies, corporations, associations, underwriters, agents, or persons, of the aggregate amount of premiums received for insuring property in the municipality where said corporation is organized or established, for and during the six months next preceding the first day of July and the first day of January of each year, which statement must be sworn to by the president or secretary of the corporation or association, or by the agent or person so acting or effecting such insurance in said municipality, and must be handed to the secretary of said corporation heretofore created or hereafter to be created under the provisions of this chapter within ten days after the first day of July and the first day of January of each year. Said secretary must, within the ten days aforesaid, by written or printed demand signed by him, require from every insurance company, corporation, association, underwriter, agent, or person engaged in the business of fire insurance in the municipality where said corporation is organized or established, the statement hereinbefore provided for. Such demand may be delivered personally at the office of such insurance company, corporation, association, underwriter, agent, or person within said municipality, and every officer of such insurance company, corporation, association, and every such underwriter, agent, or person, who, for fifteen days after said demand, neglects to render the statement herein provided for, forfeits fifty dollars for the use of said corporation, and also forfeits for its use twenty-five dollars in addition for every day he so neglects after the expiration of the said fifteen days, and such additional penalty may be computed and collected up to the time of the trial of any action brought for the recovery thereof. The penalty herein provided for may be sued for and collected, with costs, in any court of law within the State of California having jurisdiction, by and in the name of said corporation.

SEC. 119. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and fifty-three d, to read as follows:

Section 453*d*. Every contract whereby a benefit may accrue to a party or parties therein named upon the death or physical disability of a person insured thereunder, or for the payment of any sums of money dependent in any degree upon the collection of assessments or dues from persons holding similar contracts, is deemed a contract of mutual insurance upon the assessment plan. Such contracts must show that the liabilities of the insured thereunder are not limited to fixed premiums.

SEC. 120. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and fifty-three e, to read as follows:

Section 453*e*. Corporations may be formed to carry on the business of mutual insurance upon the assessment plan, and are subject only to the provisions of this chapter. No such corporation must issue contracts of insurance until at least two hundred persons have applied, in writing, for membership or insurance therein, and have paid to the treasurer of such corporation the sum of five thousand dollars. This sum must be invested in bonds or securities, approved by the insurance commissioner of this state, or deposited in some bank in this state where it will earn interest. Said bonds or securities, or evidences of such deposit, must be placed, through the insurance commissioner of this state, with the state treasurer, and the principal sum must be held in trust for the contract holders of such corporation, with the right in the corporation to exchange said bonds, securities, or evidence of bank deposit for others of like value. Such corporation must also, as a condition precedent to issuing any contracts of insurance, obtain the written certificate of the insurance commissioner that it has complied with the requirements of this chapter; and that the name of the corporation is not the same as that of any other corporation of this or other states, as indicated by the insurance department reports in his office; nor must the commissioner approve any name or title so closely resembling another as to mislead the public. No corporation formed hereunder has legal existence after one year from the date of its articles, unless its organization has been completed and business commenced; nor must any corporation or individual solicit, or cause to be solicited, any business, until such corporation has complied with the provisions of section six hundred and thirty-three of the Political Code.

SEC. 121. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and fifty-three f, to read as follows:

Section 453*f*. Any existing corporation engaged in the business of life, health, accident, or endowment insurance on the assessment plan may reincorporate under the provisions of this code and chapter, but is not obliged to do so, and may, without such reincorporation, exercise the rights, powers, and privileges conferred by this chapter.

SEC. 122. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and fifty-three g, to read as follows:

Section 453*g*. Every contract of insurance issued by such corporations must specify the sum or sums to be paid upon the happening of the contingency insured against, and when such payments must be made. Unless the contract is invalidated by fraud or by breach of its conditions, the corporation is obligated to pay the beneficiary the amount or amounts specified in its contract at the time or times therein named, and such indebtedness is a lien upon all the property of such corporation, with priority over all indebtedness thereafter incurred, except as hereinafter provided in case of insolvency. Failure to make such payment, within thirty days after notice, at the home office, by mail, as provided by law, of a final judgment, unless waiver is made by the beneficiary, constitutes a forfeiture of the right to do business.

SEC. 123. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and fifty-three h, to read as follows:

Section 453*h*. Every domestic corporation, organized to do or doing the business of insurance on the assessment plan, must accumulate a reserve or emergency fund, which must, at all times, be not less than the largest benefit contracted to be paid by it to any one person. Every corporation organized under the provisions of this chapter must accumulate such fund within a year from the date of its certificate of incorporation. Such fund, to the extent of the largest amount contracted to be paid by any such corporation to any one person, must be invested and deposited, as provided in section four hundred and fifty-three e, with the right in the corporation to exchange any such securities for others of equal value. The deposit required by section four hundred and fifty-three e constitutes a part of the reserve required by this section, at the option of such corporation. When any such corporation discontinues business, this fund must be returned to such corporation, or disposed of as may be determined by the superior court of the county in which is its principal place of business.

SEC. 124. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and fifty-three i, to read as follows:

Section 453*i*. Corporations organized under the laws of any other state or country to transact the business of mutual assessment insurance must, as a condition precedent to transacting business in this state, comply with the provisions of section four hundred and five, and deposit with the insurance commissioner of this state a certified copy of its charter or other instrument required by its home authorities; a statement under oath, of its president or secretary, of its business for the preceding year, in such form as may be required by the insurance commissioner of this state; an appointment of a general agent, service upon whom binds the corporation; a certificate that for the next preceding twelve months it has paid in full the maximum amount named in its contract of insurance; a certificate from the proper officer of its state or government that like corporations of this state are legally entitled to do business in such state or country; copies of its contracts of insurance and applications, which must show that the liabilities of its members are not limited to fixed premiums; and evidence, satisfactory to the insurance commissioner, that the corporation has accumulated a fund equal to that required of like corporations in this state, constituting a reserve or surplus fund, held in trust for the benefit of its contract-holders, and so invested and held as required by the laws of the state or government under which such corporation was organized. The insurance commissioner must thereupon issue a license to such corporation to do business in this state. This license must be renewed annually, and may be revoked whenever it is ascertained that the statements required to be made by this section are not true. Upon such revocation, notice thereof must be given by the insurance commissioner by publication in some newspaper published in the city and county of San Francisco, for two weeks, daily, and no new contracts must be made by such company in this state. When any other state or country imposes any additional license, fees, taxes, or penalties upon any corporation organized or doing business under this chapter, like license, fees, taxes, or penalties are imposed upon corporations of the same kind and their agents of such state or country doing business in this state.

SEC. 125. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and fifty-three j, to read as follows:

Section 453*j*. No corporation doing business under this chapter, except accident or casualty corporations, must issue a contract of insurance upon the life of any person under fifteen nor over sixty-one years of age. Every such contract of insurance must be founded upon written application therefor, and, except where the application is for health, accident, or casualty insurance only, or for one hundred dollars life insurance or less, such application must be accompanied by the report of a reputable physician, containing a detailed statement of his examination of the applicant, showing the applicant to be in good health, and recommending the issuance of a contract of insurance. Any solicitor, agent, employé, examining physician, or other person making a false or fraudulent statement to any corporation doing business under this chapter, with reference to any application for insurance, or for the purpose of obtaining any money or benefit from such corporation, is guilty of a misdemeanor; and any person who makes a false statement of any material fact or thing in a sworn statement as to the death or disability of a contract-holder, in any such corporation, for the purpose of procuring or aiding the beneficiary or beneficiaries or contract-holder in procuring the payment of a benefit named in the contract, is guilty of perjury.

SEC. 126. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and fifty-three k, to read as follows:

Section 453*k*. The money, benefit, annuity, endowment, charity, relief, or aid to be paid as provided by the contracts issued by any corporation doing business under this chapter, is not liable to attachment or other process, nor to be seized, taken, appropriated, or applied by any legal or equitable process, nor by operation of law, to pay any debts or liability of the contract-holder or any beneficiary named thereunder.

SEC. 127. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and fifty-three l, to read as follows:

Section 453*l*. Every corporation, whether domestic or foreign, doing the business of effecting insurance on the assessment plan, must, annually, on or before the first day of February, file with the insurance commissioner, in such form as he may prescribe, a statement of its affairs for the year ending on the preceding thirty-first day of December. The insurance commissioner, in person or by duly authorized deputy, has the power of examination into the affairs of any domestic corporation doing business or claiming to do business under this chapter, at any time, in his discretion, and must make such examination at least once a year. If he, after an examination of the affairs of a corporation, finds that it is not doing its business in conformity to this chapter, or that it is doing a fraudulent or unlawful business, or that it is not carrying out its terms of contract, or that it cannot, within three months from the date of notice of default, pay its obligations, he must cite the president, secretary, manager, or general agent of the corporation, or all of them, to appear before him, stating the time and place, to show cause why the authority of the corporation to do business should not be revoked, and if cause is not shown, then he must report the facts to the attorney-general of the state, who must commence proceedings in the proper court to restrain the corporation from doing any further business.

SEC. 128. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and fifty-three m, to read as follows:

Section 453*m*. No policy or certificate issued by any corporation or association doing business under the provisions of this chapter lapses for the nonpayment of any assessments, dues, or premiums, unless the corporation or association has first mailed to the insured under such policy or certificate, at his or her last given postoffice address, a notice setting forth the amount to be paid, and the time the same is due and payable; and such notice must be mailed at least fifteen days before the assessment is due; provided, that such corporations doing business under this chapter as collect specific amounts at specific dates, as contained in the contract, are not compelled to send such notices; and an affidavit made by the officer, bookkeeper or clerk of any such corporation having charge of the mailing of notices, setting forth the facts as they appear on the records in the office of the said corporation, showing that such notice was mailed and the date of mailing, is conclusive evidence of the mailing of such notice.

SEC. 129. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and fifty-three n, to read as follows:

Section 453*n*. The fees for filing statements, certificates, or other documents required by this chapter, or for any service or act of the insurance commissioner, and the penalties for any violation of this chapter, must, except as otherwise provided herein, be the same as provided in the laws of this state relating to life insurance companies, and must be disposed of as provided by such laws.

SEC. 130. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and fifty-three o, to read as follows:

Section 453*o*. For all lawful expenses under this chapter, or by reason of any of its provisions, in the prosecution of any suit or proceeding, or otherwise, for the enforcement of the provisions of this chapter, the insurance commissioner must present bills, duly certified by him, and accompanied with vouchers, to the state board of examiners, who may allow the same, and direct payment thereof to be made; and the state controller must draw warrants therefor on the state treasurer for the payment of the same to the insurance commissioner, out of the general fund, in addition to the ordinary contingent expense.

SEC. 131. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and fifty-three p, to read as follows:

Section 453*p*. The provisions of this chapter do not apply to secret or fraternal societies, lodges, or councils, which conduct their business and secure membership on the lodge system exclusively, having ritualistic work and ceremonies in their societies, lodges, or councils, nor to any mutual or benefit association organized or formed and composed of members of any such society, lodge, or council exclusively.

SEC. 132. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and sixty, and to read as follows:

Section 460. The legislative or other body to whom is intrusted the government of the county, city, or town, under such regulations, restrictions, and limitations, and upon such terms and payment of license tax as the county, city, or town authority may provide, may grant to any railway corporation heretofore or hereafter incorporated, franchises for the construction of elevated or underground railroad tracks over, across, or under the streets and public highways of any such county, city, or town, for a term not exceeding fifty years; provided, that before granting such franchise there must be presented to such legislative or other body a petition signed by the owners of a majority of the landed property, other than public property, on the line of said elevated portion applied for.

SEC. 133. Section four hundred and sixty-five of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 465. Every railroad corporation has power:

1. To cause such examination and surveys to be made as may be necessary to the selection of the most advantageous route for the railroad; and for such purposes its officers, agents, and employes may enter upon the lands or waters of any person, subject to liability for all damages which they do thereto;

2. To receive, hold, take, and convey, by deed or otherwise, as a natural person, such voluntary grants and donations of real estate and other property which may be made to it to aid and encourage the construction, maintenance, and accommodation of such railroad;

3. To purchase, or by voluntary grants or donations to receive, enter, take possession of, hold, and use all such real estate and other property as may be absolutely necessary for the construction and maintenance of such railroad, and for all stations, depots, and other purposes necessary to successfully work and conduct the business of the road;

4. To lay out its road, not exceeding nine rods wide, and to construct and maintain the same with a single or double track, and with such appendages and adjuncts as may be necessary for the convenient use of the same;

5. To construct its road across, along, or upon any stream of water, watercourse, roadstead, bay, navigable stream, street, avenue, or highway, or across any railway, canal, ditch, or flume which the route of its road intersects, crosses, or runs along, in such manner as to afford security for life and property; but the corporation must restore the stream or watercourse, road, street, avenue, highway, canal, ditch or flume thus intersected to its former state of usefulness, as near as may be, or so that the railroad shall not unnecessarily impair its usefulness or injure its franchise;

6. To cross, intersect, join, or unite its railroad with any other railroad, either before or after construction, at any point upon its route, and upon the grounds of such other railroad corporation, with the necessary turnouts, sidings and switches, and other conveniences in furtherance of the objects of its connections; and every corporation whose railroad is, or shall be hereafter, intersected by any new railroad, must unite with the owners of such new railroad in forming such intersections and connections, and grant facilities therefor; and if the two corporations cannot agree upon the amount of compensation to be made therefor, or the points or the manner of such crossings, intersections, and connections, the same must be ascertained and determined as is provided in title seven, part three, of the Code of Civil Procedure;

7. To purchase lands, timber, stone, gravel, or other materials, to be used in the construction and maintenance of its road, and all necessary appendages and adjuncts, or acquire them in the manner provided in title seven, part three, of the Code of Civil Procedure, for the condemnation of lands; and to change the line of its road, in whole or in part, whenever a majority of the directors so determine, as is provided hereinafter; but no such change must vary the general route of such road, as contemplated in its articles of incorporation;

8. To carry persons and property on its railroad, and receive tolls or compensation therefor;

9. To erect and maintain all necessary and convenient buildings, stations, depots, fixtures, and machinery for the accommodation and use of its passengers, freight, and business;

10. To regulate the time and manner in which passengers and property must be transported, and the tolls and compensation to be paid therefor, within the limits prescribed by law and subject to alteration, change, or amendment by the legislature at any time;

11. To regulate the force and speed of its locomotives, cars, trains, or other machinery used and employed on its road, and to establish, execute, and enforce all needful and proper rules and regulations for the management of its business transactions usual and proper for railroad corporations.

SEC. 134. A new section is hereby added to said code to be numbered four hundred and sixty-five a, and to read as follows:

Section 465*a*. Every person or corporation now, or hereafter authorized to operate a railroad by steam motive power, is also authorized to use electricity or compressed air, or both, either with or without such steam, for the purpose of propelling cars or trains on such railroad or upon any portion thereof. In incorporated cities, towns, or cities and counties having more than five thousand inhabitants, authority must first be obtained from the legislative authority thereof.

SEC. 135. Section four hundred and sixty-eight of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 468. Every railroad corporation must, within two years after filing its original articles of incorporation, begin the construction of its road, and must every year thereafter complete and put in full operation at least five miles of its road, until the same is fully completed; and upon its failure so to do, for the period of one year, its right to extend its road beyond the point then completed is forfeited. After the completion of any railroad, or any part thereof, capable of being operated, its owner must operate it, and upon his failure to keep it, or any part thereof, in full operation for the period of six months, his right to operate it in whole or in part, as the case may be, is forfeited, and the lands occupied for the purposes of the road, so far as the same is not operated, revert to the original owners or their successors in interest. A railroad is in full operation when one passenger train, or one mixed train, is run over it once a day in each direction and a sufficient number of freight trains to accommodate the traffic on the road. If a railroad is wholly constructed at an elevation of five thousand feet or more above the level of the sea, its owner is not required to maintain and operate it, nor to run passenger or other trains thereon, between the fifteenth of October of any year and the fifteenth of May of the year following. This section must not be construed to require the operation of a road when prevented by the act of God, nor when the operation of the road, together with its branch and trunk lines, does not yield income sufficient to defray the expenses of maintaining and operating it in connection with its branch and trunk lines. The railroad commissioners have the power to examine and determine whether a railroad, together with its branch and trunk lines, yields income sufficient to operate the same.

SEC. 136. A new section is hereby added to said code, to be numbered four hundred and seventy-three a, and to read as follows:

Section 473*a*. Railroad corporations doing business in this state and organized under any law of this state or the United States, or of any state or territory thereof, have power to enter into contracts with one another, whereby the one may lease of the other the whole or any part of its railroad, or may acquire of the other the right to use, in common with it, the whole or any part of its railroad.

SEC. 137. Section four hundred and eighty-one of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 481. Every such corporation must start and run its cars, for the transportation of persons and property, at such regular times as it shall fix by public notice, and must furnish sufficient accommodations for the transportation of all such passengers and property, as within a reasonable time previous thereto, offer or are offered for transportation, at the place of starting, at the junction of other railroads, and at siding and stopping-places established for receiving and discharging way passengers and freight; and must take, transport and discharge such passengers and property at, from, and to such places, on the due payment of tolls, freight, or fare therefor.

SEC. 138. Section four hundred and eighty-nine of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 489. Whenever the board of railroad commissioners, in the discharge of its duties, establishes or adopts rates of charges for the transportation of passengers and freight, pursuant to the provisions of the constitution, said board must serve a printed schedule of such rates, and of any changes that may be made in such rates upon the person, co-partnership, company, or corporation affected thereby; and upon such service it is the duty of such person, co-partnership, company, or corporation to immediately cause copies of the same to be posted in all its offices, station-houses, warehouses, and landing offices affected by such rates, or change of rates, in such manner as to be accessible to public inspection during the usual business hours. Said board must also make such further publication thereof as it deems proper and necessary for the public good. If the party to be served is a corporation, such service may be made upon the president, vice-president, secretary, or managing agent thereof, and if a co-partnership, upon any partner thereof. The rates of charges established or adopted by said board, pursuant to the constitution and the laws of this state, must go into force and effect on the twentieth day after service of such schedule of rates or changes in rates, upon the person, co-partnership, company, or corporation affected thereby.

SEC. 139. Section four hundred and ninety-two of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 140. Section four hundred and ninety-three of said code is hereby repealed.

SEC. 141. Section four hundred and ninety-seven of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 497. Authority to lay railroad tracks through the streets and public highways of any incorporated city, city and county, or town, or from any point in, or at the exterior boundary of such city, city and county, or town, to, in, or through any public park owned by such city, city and county, or town, outside of such city, city and county, or town, may be obtained for a term of years not exceeding fifty, from the trustees, council, or other body to whom is intrusted the government of the city, city and county, or town, under such restrictions and limitations, and upon such terms and payment of license tax, as the city, city and county, or town authority may provide. In no case must permission be granted to propel cars upon such tracks otherwise than by electricity, compressed air, horses, mules, or by wire ropes running under the streets and moved by stationary engines, unless for special reasons in this title hereinafter mentioned. Such board or body in granting the right, or at any time after the same is granted, to use electricity or any other of said modes, has power to impose such terms, restrictions, and limitations as to the use of streets and the construction and mode of operating such electric and other roads as may, by such board or body, be deemed for the public safety or welfare. It is unlawful to grant any franchise mentioned in this section, or to extend the time for the construction or operation of any street railroad, within ninety days next preceding the date of holding a general election, or within seventy days next immediately following, including the day of holding such general election; and any franchise or extension so granted is void.

SEC. 142. Section four hundred and ninety-eight of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 498. The city or town authorities, in granting the right of way to street railroad corporations, in addition to the restrictions which they are authorized to impose, must require a strict compliance with the following conditions, except in the case of prismoidal or other elevated railways: First, to construct their tracks on those portions of streets designated in the ordinance granting the right, which must be, as nearly as possible, in the middle thereof; second, to plank, pave, or macadamize the entire length of the street used by their track, between the rails, and for two feet on each side thereof, and between the tracks, if there is more than one, and to keep the same constantly in repair, flush with the street, and with good crossings; third, that the tracks must not be more than five feet wide within the rails, and must have a space between them sufficient to allow the cars to pass each other freely. In case of prismoidal and other elevated railways the railway must be required to be constructed in such manner as will present the least obstruction to the freedom of the streets in which it is erected. Every right or franchise for a street railway granted under the provisions of this title is subject to the condition that the person or corporation to whom the same is granted must and will permit mail-carriers in the employ of the United States Government, at all times, while engaged in the actual discharge of duty, to ride on the cars of such railroad free of charge.

SEC. 143. Section five hundred and one of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 501. The rates of fare on the cars must not exceed ten cents for one fare for any distance under three miles, and in municipal corporations of the first class must not exceed five cents for each passenger per trip of any distance in one direction, either going or coming, along any part of the whole length of the road or its connections. The cars must be of the most approved construction for the comfort and convenience of passengers, and provided with brakes to stop the same, when required. A violation of the provisions of this section subjects the corporation to a fine of one hundred dollars for each offense.

SEC. 144. Section five hundred and four of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 504. Every violation of the provisions of section five hundred and one, subjects the owner or owners of the street railroad violating the same to a forfeiture, to the person unlawfully charged or paying more than is herein allowed to be charged, of the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars for each and every instance in which such unlawful charge is made or collected, to be recovered by suit in any court of competent jurisdiction. Such cause of action is assignable to one having a like cause of action in his own right against the same defendant, and an action may be maintained by the assignee in his own name, and several such causes of action can be vested in such assignee and united in the same action.

SEC. 145. Section five hundred and seven of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 507. In every grant to construct street railroads, the right to grade, sewer, pave, macadamize, or otherwise improve, alter, or repair the streets or highways, is reserved to the municipality, and cannot be alienated or impaired; such work to be done so as to obstruct the railroad as little as possible; and, if required, the owner of such railroad must shift its rails so as to avoid the obstructions made thereby.

SEC. 146. Section five hundred and thirteen of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 513. When the route is surveyed a map thereof must be submitted to and filed with the board of supervisors of each county through or into which the road runs, giving its general course, and the principal points to or by which it runs, and its width, which must in no case exceed one hundred feet, and the supervisors must either approve or reject the survey. If approved, it must be entered of record on the journal of the board, and such approval authorizes the use of all public lands and highways over which the survey runs; but the board of supervisors must require the corporation, at its own expense, and the corporation must so change and open the highways so taken and used as to make the same as good as before the appropriation thereof; and must so construct all crossings of public highways over and by its road and toll gates, as not to hinder or obstruct the use of the same.

SEC. 147. Section five hundred and fourteen of said section is hereby amended to read as follows:

But in no case must the tolls be more than sufficient to pay fifteen per cent, nor less than ten per cent per annum, on the cost of construction, after paying for repairs and other expenses for attending to the roads, bridges, or ferries. If tolls, other than as herein provided, are charged or demanded, the corporation forfeits its franchise, and must pay to the party so charged one hundred dollars as liquidated damages.

SEC. 148. Section five hundred and seventeen of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 517. Each toll-gatherer may prevent from passing through his gate any person, animal, or vehicle, subject to toll, until the toll authorized to be collected for such passing has been paid.

Section 518. Every toll-gatherer who, at any gate, unreasonably hinders or delays any traveler or passenger or any vehicle or animal liable to the payment of toll, or demands or receives from any person more than he is authorized to collect, for each offense forfeits the sum of twenty-five dollars to the person aggrieved.

SEC. 150. Section five hundred and twenty-two of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 522. The corporation may mortgage or hypothecate its road and other property for funds with which to construct or repair its road, but no mortgage or hypothecation is valid or binding unless at least twenty-five per cent of the capital stock subscribed has been paid in and invested in the construction of the road and appurtenances, and then only after an affirmative vote of two thirds of the capital stock subscribed.

SEC. 151. A new section is hereby added to said code, to be numbered five hundred and twenty-four, and to read as follows:

In incorporated cities no franchise must be granted for the purpose herein expressed, unless the consent in writing of the owners of a majority of the frontage upon the road or street along which said path or road is sought to be constructed, is first had and obtained, and filed with such legislative or governing body.

SEC. 152. Section five hundred and twenty-eight of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 528. No corporation must construct, or take tolls on, a bridge, ferry, wharf, chute, or pier until authority is granted therefor by the supervisors, or other governing body having authority in that behalf.

SEC. 153. Section five hundred and twenty-nine of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 529. Every such corporation ceases to be a body corporate:

1. If, within six months from filing its articles of incorporation, it has not obtained such authority from the board of supervisors, or other governing body having authority in that behalf; and if, within one year thereafter, it has not commenced the construction of the bridge, wharf, chute, or pier, and actually expended thereon at least ten per cent of the capital stock of the corporation;

2. If, within three years from filing the articles of incorporation, the bridge, wharf, chute, or pier is not completed;

3. If, when the bridge, wharf, chute, or pier of the corporation is destroyed, it is not reconstructed and ready for use within three years thereafter;

4. If the ferry of any such corporation is not in running order within three months after authority is obtained to establish it, or if at any time thereafter it ceases for a like term consecutively to perform the duties imposed by law.

SEC. 154. Section five hundred and thirty of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 530. The president and secretary of every bridge, ferry, wharf, chute, or pier corporation must annually, under oath, report to the board of supervisors, or other governing body having authority in that behalf, of the county in which the articles of incorporation are filed:

1. The cost of constructing and providing all necessary appendages and appurtenances for its bridge, ferry, wharf, chute, or pier;

2. The amount of all moneys expended thereon, since its construction, for repairs and incidental expenses;

3. The amount of its capital stock, how much paid in, and how much actually expended thereof;

4. The amount received during the year for tolls, and from all other sources, stating each separately;

5. The amount of dividends made, and the indebtedness of the corporation, specifying for what it was incurred;

This report the president and secretary must cause to be published for four weeks in a daily newspaper published nearest the bridge, ferry, wharf, pier, or chute, if required by order of the board of supervisors or other governing body having authority in that behalf. A failure to make such report subjects the corporation to a penalty of two hundred dollars, and for every week permitted to elapse after such failure an additional penalty of fifty dollars, payable in each case to the county from which the authority of the corporation was derived. All such cases must be reported by the board of supervisors, or other governing body having authority in that behalf, to the district attorney or city attorney, who must commence an action therefor.

SEC. 159. Section five hundred and forty of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

No more than one half the monthly receipts must be used for that purpose; and thereafter the directors may, in their discretion, retire such other free shares as they consider to be for the best interest of the association. Whenever, under the provisions of this section, the withdrawal of shares is to be enforced, the

Sec. 202. A new section is hereby added to said code, to be numbered six hundred and fifty-three c, to read as follows:

Section 653*c*. In such association the rights and interests of all members are equal, and no member can have or acquire a greater interest therein than any other member has. Sec. 230. Section nine hundred and seventy of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 970. In the case of ships meeting, the following rules must be observed, in addition to those prescribed by that part of the Political Code which relates to navigation:

1. Whenever any ship, whether a steamer or sailing ship, proceeding in one direction, meets another ship, whether a steamer or sailing ship, proceeding in another direction, so that if both ships were to continue their respective courses they would pass so near as to involve the risk of a collision, the helms of both ships must be put to port so as to pass on the port side of each other; and this rule applies to all steamers and all sailing ships, whether on the port or starboard tack, and whether close-hauled or not, except where the circumstances of the case are such as to render a departure from the rule necessary in order to avoid immediate danger, and subject, also, to a due regard to the dangers of navigation, and, as regards sailing ships, on the starboard tack close-hauled, to the keeping such ships under command;

2. In the case of sailing vessels, those having the wind fair must give way to those on a wind. When both are going by the wind, the vessel on the starboard tack must keep her wind, and the one on the larboard tack bear up strongly, passing each other on the larboard hand. When both vessels have the wind large or abeam, and meet, they must pass each other in the same way on the larboard hand, to effect which two last mentioned objects the helm must be put to port. Steam vessels must be regarded as vessels navigating with a fair wind, and should give way to sailing vessels on a wind of either tack;

3. A steamer navigating a narrow channel must, whenever it is safe and practicable, keep to that side of the fairway or mid-channel which lies on the starboard side of the steamer;

4. A steamer when passing another steamer in such channel must always leave the other upon the larboard side;

5. When steamers must inevitably or necessarily cross so near that, by continuing their respective courses, there would be a risk of collision, each vessel must put her helm to port, so as always to pass on the larboard side of each other;

6. The rules of this section do not apply to any case for which a different rule is provided by the regulations for the government of pilots of steamers approaching each other within the sound of the steam whistle, or by the regulations concerning lights upon steamers, prescribed by or under authority of the laws of the United States.

If the decedent leaves no surviving husband or wife, but leaves issue, the whole estate goes to such issue; and if such issue consists of more than one child living, or one child living and the lawful issue of one or more deceased children, then the estate goes in equal shares to the children living, or to the child living and the issue of the deceased child or children by right of representation;

6. If the decedent leaves several children, or one child and the issue of one or more children, and any such surviving child dies under age, and not having been married, all the estate that came to the deceased child by inheritance from such decedent descends in equal shares to the other children of the same parent and to the issue of any such other children who are dead, by right of representation;

7. If, at the death of such child, who dies under age, not having been married, all the other children of his parents are also dead, and any of them has left issue, the estate that came to such child by inheritance from his parent descends to the issue of all other children of the same parent; and if all the issue are in the same degree of kindred to the child, they share the estate equally, otherwise they take according to the right of representation.

SPECIAL ORDER RESET.

PETITIONS.

The following petition was presented by Senator Corlett, and ordered printed in the Journal, down to and including the tenth name:

To the HON. ROBERT CORLETT, Senator representing Senatorial District No. 7:

DEAR SIR: A bill was presented in the Legislature at Sacramento by Senator Nelson of San Francisco, on or about January 29, 1901, in relation to the collection of a license tax on the business of selling liquors. The provisions of this bill are such (especially Sections 3 and 4) that if passed by the Legislature each city and county in the State will be handed over into the power of one man in each of these communities, viz: the tax collector. To pass such a measure, irrespective of the sentiments of these several communities on the question of license or no license, would be, we consider, both un-American and unjust. We, therefore, your constituents, request that you vote against this bill, to the end it may not become a law.

C. E. Hendricks, Kelseyville; F. W. Dorn, Kelseyville; James A. Gunn, Jr., Kelseyville; C. A. Patrick, Kelseyville; R. G. Luark, Kelseyville; W. A. Maxwell, Kelseyville; J. D. Hendricks, Kelseyville; Edgar Woodridge, Lakeport; O. T. Boardman, Kelseyville; William J. Biggerstaff, Lakeport.

Like petitions were presented as follows:

By Senator Lukens, with forty-two names.

By Senator Lardner, with twenty-seven names.

To the HON. W. F. MAGGARD, Senator representing Senatorial District No. 4:

DEAR SIR: A bill was presented in the Legislature at Sacramento by Senator Nelson of San Francisco, on or about January 29, 1901, in relation to the collection of a license tax on the business of selling liquors. The provisions of this bill are such (especially Sections 3 and 4) that, if passed by the Legislature, each city and county in the State will be handed over into the power of one man in each of these communities, viz: the tax collector. To pass such a measure, irrespective of the sentiments of these several communities on the question of license or no license, would be, we consider, both un-American and unjust. We, therefore, your constituents, request that you vote against this bill, to the end it may not become a law.

Wm. L. Briggs, B. H. Brubaker, Persis Phelps, Edwin Edwards, O. L. Nichols, F. M. Transul, E. Cope, L. H. Jennings, W. E. Dietz, H. C. Smith (of Corning, California).

PETITIONS.

The following petition was presented by Senator Flint, and ordered printed in the Journal:

To the Hon. THOMAS FLINT, JR., Senator representing Senatorial District No. 33:

DEAR SIR: A bill was presented in the Legislature at Sacramento by Senator Nelson of San Francisco, on or about January 29, 1901, in relation to the collection of a license tax on the business of selling liquors. The provisions of this bill are such (especially Sections 3 and 4) that, if passed by the Legislature, each city and county in the State will be handed over into the power of one man in each of these communities, viz: the tax collector. To pass such a measure, irrespective of the sentiments of these several communities on the question of license or no license, would be, we consider, both un-American and unjust. We, therefore, your constituents, request that you vote against this bill, to the end that it may not become a law.

Treat, W. J. Blackie, Casper Wolfe, M. R. Wolfe, W. M. Pence, W. L. Shelton, J. V. Lacy, E. J. Robinson (of Salinas, California).

FERNANDO, CAL., February 15, 1901.

To the HON. A. T. CURRIER, Sacramento, Cal.:

DEAR SIR: Whereas, we believe that a bill, introduced before the State Legislature January 29th by Senator Nelson of San Francisco, in regard to a license tax on liquor business, is undemocratic and contrary to the underlying principles of our government, in that it places unlimited power in the hands of one man, the tax collector; and whereas, we believe that its passage would be destructive to the best interests of our homes, our community, and our State, we, the undersigned, your constituents, desire to enter an earnest protest against the same.

A. A. Fairfield, Claude Welch, J. P. Frankhouse, William Allen, George Bates, R. A. Hoyt, John Stalker, R. H. Maclay, M. Prouty, A. C. Reed, and many others.

The following petition was presented by Senator Laird, and ordered printed in the Journal down to and including the tenth name:

To the HON. J. T. LAIRD, Sacramento, Cal.:

We, the undersigned citizens of Susanville, Lassen County, State of California, respectfully request that you introduce and urge the passage of a bill before the present Legislature appropriating to Agricultural District No 43 the sum of $2,400, for the following reasons:

The appropriation made by the Legislature in 1899 to said district was not used because of misfortunes befalling the town which were unforeseen and unavoidable. A sum of money was raised by the citizens of Susanville and Honey Lake Valley which, with the sum so appropriated for the years 1899 and 1900, would have assured a successful fair, but before the time for holding such fair arrived the entire business portion of the town of Susanville was entirely destroyed by one of the most disastrous fires in its history. But from its ashes it has arisen, Phoenix-like, and now asks that a helping hand may be extended to lead it back to the position it once occupied as the gem of the "sage-brush belt."

With this aid Susanville will be able to give, this fall, one of the most successful fairs in its history, and distribute among the business men and the community money that they and it sorely need.

Fred Hines, H. W. Meylert, W. W. Scholl, J. H. Riley, P. J. Goumaz, James T. Boyd, Nathan & Schmidt, John B. Spalding, W. H. Earl, L. D. Neall, and many others.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE.

The following report of special committee was received and read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

ON THE PRESTON SCHOOL OF INDUSTRY.

To the Senate of California:

Your special committee of three from the Committee on Finance and three from the Committee on Reformatories, have visited the Preston School of Industry, as directed by resolution of the Senate, and now beg to report as follows:

This institution owns about 600 acres of land, most of which is of very poor quality, being too rough and stony to farm, and the soil being decidedly unproductive.

There are three large brick buildings. The main building would easily accommodate all of the boys and the necessary attendants. Two fine two-story brick "cottages" have been built with a view to segregating the larger boys from the smaller ones. One of these, costing about $22,500, besides much labor and material furnished by the school, is totally unused, there being no demand for it at present.

The buildings from top to bottom are clean and tidy, and the boys are properly clothed and fed. The head cook is a young man, who, as a lad, was committed to the school for a minor offense. He is now trustworthy and reliable, earning a salary, and enjoying the respect of all about the school. Other members of the school are learning other trades, and give promise of making useful members of society.

The condition of the grounds, roads, and walks about the buildings is not, in the judgment of your committee, entitled to the highest commendation. But little in the way of lawns, flowers, and ornamental shrubbery—nature's most potent refining influences—is noticeable. It is true, as noted above, that the soil is very poorly adapted to the growth of tender plants, but it would seem that with over one hundred healthy boys and one third as many employes, a better showing could have been made in a half dozen years.

The farm is making a fairly good showing, considering the nature of the land. But we believe it would be more profitable to the State and to the boys also if more attention were given to some one or two departments of farming and less to general crops. We see no reason why a first-class dairy school should not be maintained there, where every step in butter and cheese making could be taught thoroughly. More of the land should be seeded to alfalfa and less to grain. A silo should be erected and scientific stock feeding should be thoroughly taught in connection with this dairy. This is not being attempted at present, judging by the last report of the superintendent. From this report we learn that 250 acres were farmed to grain, and thirty acres to alfalfa, the result being 300 tons of hay and some pasturage. The pay-roll for January shows the following items:

Farm superintendent	$75 00
Stockman	60 00
Gardener	50 00
Assistant farmer	40 00

And board in each case. There is no profit to the State in raising plain barley hay with labor at such prices. Nor is this line of farm work the kind which should be taught the boys to best equip them for a contest with the world. The man who merely knows how to plant and harvest grain hay, receives about one dollar a day, and lives in a "bunk-house." If he understands extensive farming, the silo and other scientific methods of feeding, and knows how to make butter and cheese, he is in good demand at $100 a month. The last biennial report of the school shows seventeen boys employed in the "agricultural" department, which seems to include the dairy, as no mention is made of that department separately.

At the time of your committee's visit to the school there were one hundred and ten boys in attendance, and thirty-four men and women on the pay-roll. The last biennial report shows the following expenditures:

From Salary Fund	$49,518 19
From Support Fund	58,136 02

But the report of the commissary shows the following issues to different departments:

To Superintendent's residence	$1,311 90
To officers' mess	11,801 05
	$13,112 95
To boys' mess	19,508 69

Adding the salaries to what the employes received from the commissary, and that department cost $62,631.14.

This includes the schoolroom work, which is conducted by two teachers, one receiving $70 and one $40 per month and board.

A considerable sum has been spent in bringing water to the school, and a fine power plant is the result. This affords electricity for lighting and all the power needed to run machinery. Mining operations on the headwaters of the stream make the water unfit for domestic use. It is, however, suitable for power and irrigation purposes, and a spring on the premises affords sufficient water for the building. Should the number of boys attending the school increase to approximately the capacity of the buildings, it would become necessary to augment the domestic water supply. This could be done by putting in a settling reservoir, and a filter to clarify the water from the creek. But your committee does not think it necessary to go to that expense at present. The attendance at the school has been on the decrease of late, and may continue to do so. At any rate, it is hardly probable that the attendance will increase before another session of the Legislature beyond the present water supply.

In conclusion, your committee desires to say that it believes the expense of this institution is out of proportion to the results accomplished. The efforts at trade teaching are scattered over too many subjects. If they were concentrated along fewer lines, fewer people would need to be employed. We give below the pay for the month of January, 1901:

AN ACT

To amend Sections 1503, 1521, 1663, 1770, 1771, 1772, 1775, 1787, 1788, 1789, 1790, 1791, 1792, and 1793 of the Political Code of the State of California, relating to public schools.

The People of the State of California, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. Section fifteen hundred and three of the Political Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

1503. (1) The Board of Trustees of each State normal school, upon the recommendation of the faculty, may issue to those pupils who worthily complete the full course of study and training prescribed, diplomas of graduation, either from the normal department or the kindergarten department, or both.

(2) Said diploma from the normal department shall entitle the holder thereof to a grammar school certificate from any county, or city and county, board of education in the State. One from the kindergarten department shall entitle the holder to a certificate to teach in any kindergarten class of any primary school in the State.

(3) Whenever any county, or city and county, board of education shall present to the State Board of Education a recommendation showing that the holder of a normal school diploma from the normal department of any State normal school of the State of California, or of a diploma from any other normal school that the State Board of Education shall declare to be equivalent to a diploma from the normal department of a State normal school of this State, has had a successful experience of two years in the public schools of this State, subsequent to the granting of such diploma, the State Board of Education shall grant to the holder thereof a document signed by the president and secretary of the State board, showing such fact. The said diploma, accompanied by said document of the State board attached thereto, shall become a permanent certificate of qualification to teach in any primary or grammar school in the State, valid until such time as the said diploma may be revoked, as provided in section fourteen hundred and eighty-nine of this code, or until such time as the document issued by the State board, as aforesaid, may be revoked or suspended as provided in subdivision five of section fifteen hundred and twenty-one of this code.

(4) Upon presentation of the diploma and document referred to in subdivision three of this section to any county, or city and county, superintendent of schools, said superintendent shall record the name of the holder thereof in a book provided for that purpose in his office, and the holder thereof shall henceforth be absolved from the requirement of subdivision one of section sixteen hundred and ninety-six of this code.

(5) Said diploma of graduation from any State normal school in this State, when accompanied by a document granted by the faculty of the State University on or before the thirtieth day of June, nineteen hundred and three, showing that the holder of such diploma has successfully completed the course of instruction in said university prescribed for students who are graduates of a normal school of this State, shall entitle such holder to a high school certificate authorizing the holder to teach in any grammar and primary school, and in any high school in this State.

SEC. 2. Section fifteen hundred and twenty-one of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

1521. The powers and duties of the State Board of Education are as follows:

(1) To adopt rules and regulations, not inconsistent with the laws of this State, for its own government, and for the government of the public schools and district school libraries.

(2) (a) To prescribe by general rule the credentials upon which persons may be granted certificates to teach in the high schools of this State. No credentials shall be prescribed or allowed unless the same, in the judgment of said board, are the equivalent of a diploma of graduation from the University of California, and are satisfactory evidence that the holder thereof has taken an amount of pedagogy equivalent to the minimum amount of pedagogy prescribed by the State Board of Education of this State, and include a recommendation for a high school certificate from the faculty of the institution in which the pedagogical work shall have been taken.

(b) The said board shall also consider the cases of individual applicants who have taught successfully for a period of not less than twenty school months and who are not possessed of the credentials prescribed by the board under the provisions of this section. The said board, in its discretion, may issue to such applicants special credentials upon which they may be granted certificates to teach in the high schools of the State. In such special cases, the board may take cognizance of any adequate evidence of preparation which the applicants may present. The standard of qualification in such special cases shall not be lower than that represented by the other credentials named by the board under the provisions of this section.

(3) To grant life diplomas of four grades, valid throughout the State, as follows:

(a) High school: Authorizing the holder to teach in any primary, grammar, or high school.

(b) Grammar school: Authorizing the holder to teach in any primary, or grammar school.

(c) Kindergarten-primary: Authorizing the holder to teach in the kindergarten class of any primary school.

(d) Special: Authorizing the holder to teach in any school such special branches and in such grades as are named in such diploma.

(4) Except as provided in sections fifteen hundred and three and seventeen hundred and seventy five of this code, life diplomas may be issued only to such persons as have held for one year, and still hold a valid county, or city and county, certificate, corresponding in grade to the grade of diploma applied for, and who shall furnish satisfactory evidence of having had a successful experience in teaching of at least forty-two months. Not less than twenty-one months of said experience shall have been in the public schools of California. Every application must be accompanied to the State Board of Education by a certified copy of a resolution adopted by at least a three-fourths vote of all the members composing a county, or city and county, board of education, recommending that the diploma be granted, and also by an affidavit of the applicant, specifically setting forth the places in which, and the dates between which, said applicant has taught. The application must also be accompanied by a fee of two dollars, for the purpose of defraying the expense of issuing the diploma.

(5) To revoke or suspend for immoral or unprofessional conduct, or for evident unfitness for teaching, life diplomas, educational diplomas, documents issued under the provisions of sections fifteen hundred and three and seventeen hundred and seventy-five of this code, or credentials issued in accordance with subdivisions two of this section; and to adopt such rules for said revocation as they may deem expedient or necessary.

(6) To have done by the State Printer, or other officer having the management of the State printing, any printing required by it; provided, that all orders for printing shall first be approved by the State Board of Examiners.

(7) To adopt and use, in authentication of its acts, an official seal.

(8) To keep a record of its proceedings.

(9) To designate some educational monthly journal as the official organ of the department of public instruction. The publishers of such journal shall, before the tenth day of each month, mail one copy of such journal to the clerk of every school district in the State and to the secretary of every board of education, and shall, on or before the tenth day of each month, file an affidavit with the Superintendent of Public Instruction, showing that such copies have been so mailed for that month. Each clerk of a school district and each clerk of a board of education receiving a copy of such journal so mailed to him shall place such copy in the school library of his district, before the end of the month in which such copy shall be so received. The County Superintendent of Schools of each county, or city and county, shall draw his warrant semi-annually in favor of the publishers of such school journal for an amount equal to one half of the regular subscription price of such journal, not exceeding one dollar and fifty cents in any school year, for each and every school district in his county, or city and county, and charge the same to the library fund of the district; provided, that such warrant shall not be drawn until such County Superintendent of Schools shall have received from the Superintendent of Public Instruction a certificate to the effect that the affidavits aforesaid have been duly filed in his office, showing the mailing of copies of such journal as above required, for the half year to be covered by such warrant.

SEC. 3. Section sixteen hundred and sixty-three of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

1663. (1) The public schools of California, other than those supported exclusively by the State, shall be classed as high schools, technical schools, and grammar and primary schools (including kindergarten classes), and no teacher shall be employed to teach in any school if the certificate held by the teacher is of a grade below that of the school or class to be taught; provided, that the holders of existing primary certificates or of the same when hereafter renewed shall be eligible to teach in any of the classes of the schools of the county, or city and county, which the county, or city and county, superintendent shall have designated as of the primary grade, or in any school which said superintendent shall have designated as a primary school; and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed as prohibiting the employment of any person holding a valid special certificate for kindergarten work heretofore granted by any county, or city and county, board of education in this state, as a teacher in any kindergarten class of a primary school in the county, or city and county, in which said valid special certificate for kindergarten work shall have been granted. The county, or city and county, board of education must, except in incorporated cities having boards of education, on or before the first day of July of each year, prescribe the course of study in each grade of the grammar and primary schools for the ensuing school year.

(2) Except in incorporated cities having boards of education the county, or city and county, board of education shall provide for a final examination and conferring of diplomas of graduation on those pupils who have satisfactorily completed the course of study provided for the grammar and primary schools of the county.

(3) The county, or city and county, board of education may amend and change, subject to section sixteen hundred and sixty-five of this code, the course of study for the grammar and primary schools, whenever necessary.

SEC. 4. Section seventeen hundred and seventy of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

1770. (1) Each county board of education shall meet annually at such time as they may determine. Special meetings may be called by the superintendent whenever, in his judgment, the exigencies of the schools may require them to be held. Upon the request of any three members, in writing, the superintendent shall call a special meeting. Notice of all annual meetings shall be given by the secretary at least ten days prior to the time of meeting. No business shall be transacted at a special meeting, except as provided in subdivision two of this section, other than such as may be specified in the call of the secretary.

(2) At the annual meeting only, the board shall examine applicants for certificates to teach in the public schools. All examination papers for teachers' certificates shall be kept on file in the office of the Superintendent of Schools for at least one year and shall be open for the inspection of the applicants or their authorized agents. Certificates upon credentials may be granted, and unexpired certificates may be renewed, at any meeting of the board.

(3) The Board of Supervisors shall allow to each member of the county board of education a compensation of five dollars a day for his services, and the same rate of mileage as is allowed to the members of the board of supervisors of the county. The secretary shall be allowed the sum of five dollars per day for the actual time that the board may be in session; said compensation of the members of the board, and of the superintendent, shall be payable out of the same fund and in the same manner as the salary of the Superintendent of Schools is paid.

(4) All expenses for printing required by the county board of education and all incidental expenses incurred for stationery or other purposes in the performance of their duties, shall be audited and paid as other claims against the General Fund of the county are paid.

SEC. 5. Section seventeen hundred and seventy-one of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

1771. County boards of education have power:

(1) To adopt rules and regulations, not inconsistent with the laws of this State, for their own government.

(2) To prescribe and enforce rules for the examination of teachers, to examine applicants for grammar school certificates and special certificates, and to establish a standard of proficiency which will entitle the person examined to a certificate.

(3) To grant, in accordance with sections seventeen hundred and seventy two and seventeen hundred and seventy-five of this code, the following certificates, renewable at the option of the board:

(a) High school certificates, authorizing the holders to teach in any high school, grammar or primary school in the county

(b) Grammar school certificates, authorizing the holders to teach in any grammar or primary school in the county.

(c) Kindergarten-primary certificates authorizing the holders to teach in the kindergarten class of any primary school in the county.

(d) Special certificates, authorizing the holders to teach in the schools of the county such special branch or branches of learning and in such grades as are named in such certificates.

(4) To grant, in accordance with subdivision four of section seventeen hundred and seventy-five of this code, permanent certificates of the grade and kind designated therein. Every certificate that is not a permanent certificate shall be valid for six years; provided, that when any certificate shall be granted on a recommendation that has been given for a limited period only, such certificate shall not be valid for a longer period than that specified in the recommendation. All certificates must be issued upon the blank forms prepared by the Superintendent of Public Instruction, and must have the impress of the seal of the board.

(5) To adopt a list of books and apparatus for district school libraries, and, except in cities having a city board of education, to prescribe and enforce in the public schools a course of study and the use of a uniform series of text-books.

(6) To revoke or suspend for immoral or unprofessional conduct, or evident unfitness for teaching, the certificates granted by them.

(7) To keep a record of their proceedings.

(8) To issue diplomas of graduation from any of the public schools of the county, except in cities having boards of education, which diplomas shall be designed by the Superintendent of Public Instruction, and be distributed as other blanks from his office.

(9) To adopt and use, in authentication of their acts, an official seal, and to have such printing done as may be necessary in the discharge of their duties.

SEC. 6. Section seventeen hundred and seventy-two of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

1772. County boards of education may, on examination, grant certificates as follows:

(1) Grammar school certificates: To those who have passed a satisfactory examination in the following studies: Reading, English grammar and advanced composition, English and American literature, orthography and defining, penmanship, drawing, vocal music, bookkeeping, arithmetic, algebra to quadratics, plane geometry, geography (physical, political, and industrial), elementary physics, physiology, history of the United States and civil government, history (ancient, medieval, and modern), school law, methods of teaching.

No special certificate shall be granted to teach, in any school, studies other than drawing, music, physical culture, and commercial, technical, or industrial work.

County boards of education may renew any certificate issued by them prior to the adoption of this law, and now in force, and may renew certificates granted by authority of this law. Renewed certificates shall be valid for a period equal to that for which they were originally granted.

(4) When the holder of any certificate or State diploma shall have taught successfully in the same county, or city and county, for five years, the board of education of such county, or city and county, may grant a permanent certificate of the kind and grade of the class in which said applicant has been teaching, valid in the county, or city and county, in which issued, during the life of the holder, or until revoked for any of the causes designated in subdivision four of section seventeen hundred and ninety-one of this code; provided, that such permanent certificate shall in no case be of a higher grade than the grade of the certificate or State diploma on which the teaching has been done; and for a permanent high-school certificate twenty months of said teaching shall have consisted of regular high school work; and provided further, that a certificate when renewed the second time, or any time thereafter, shall become, by such renewal, a permanent certificate, if the holder of said certificate shall have complied with all of the conditions of this subdivision.

(5) Whenever any holder of a diploma from the State University, or from any other university that shall be declared by the State Board of Education to be of equal rank with the State University, shall present to said State board satisfactory evidence of having had two years' successful experience as a teacher, subsequent to graduation, accompanied by satisfactory evidence that such holder has completed the prescribed course in the pedagogical department of the University of California, or a pedagogical course equivalent thereto, the State Board of Education shall grant to the holder of said university diploma a document signed by the president and secretary of the State board, showing such fact, and said diploma, accompanied by said document of the State board attached thereto, shall become a permanent certificate of qualification to teach in any grammar, or primary, or high school in the State, valid until such time as the said document shall be revoked by said State Board of Education, for any of the causes shown in subdivision four of section seventeen hundred and ninety-one of this code.

SEC. 8. Section seventeen hundred and eighty-seven of said code is hereby amended to read as follows:

To the Senate of the State of California :

I herewith return to your honorable body without my approval, with my objections thereto, Senate Bill No. 161, entitled "An Act providing for an appropriation for the purpose of purchasing additional land for Sutter's Fort, and for improving the grounds about such fort."

The many pressing and needed appropriations for the maintenance and support of the various State institutions will not permit at this time of the appropriation of the sum of $20,000, nor any other sum, for the purchase of the land described in this bill, however laudable it may appear, for the purpose of beautifying and improving the historic Sutter's Fort.

The bill is also objectionable for the further reason that the appropriation is made payable immediately.

HENRY T. GAGE,
Governor of the State of California.

SPECIAL ORDER SET.

On motion of Senator Flint, consideration of Governor's veto to Senate Bill No. 161 was made special order for Saturday, March 2, 1901, at three o'clock and thirty minutes P. M.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR—(RESUMED).

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
SACRAMENTO, March 1, 1901. }

To the Senate of the State of California:

I herewith return to your honorable body without my approval, with my objections thereto, Senate Bill No. 185, entitled "An Act to add a new section to the Penal Code, to be known and numbered Section 556, to prohibit the falsely marking, branding, or labeling boxes, packages, or barrels containing fruit, and providing that a violation thereof shall be deemed a misdemeanor, and fixing a punishment upon conviction therefor."

This bill, while designed to prevent frauds which deserve public condemnation, is unhappily so worded as to injuriously affect the sale of fruit and the fruit-packing and fruit-canning interests of the State.

The measure declares that it shall be unlawful to sell, dispose of, ship, or offer for shipment any fruit contained in boxes, cans, glasses, packages, or barrels with a stamp, stencil, brand, printed statement or label affixed thereto, which shall falsely designate the county or place in which said fruit is grown, or canned, or packed.

Under the terms of this proposed law, the sale or disposition of such fruit, by even the retail merchant or any other innocent person, would be made criminal, if it should chance that the county or place in which the fruit is grown, canned, or packed would be falsely marked thereon by error or design of the fruit-growers or the original packers of the goods.

Again, there are fruit-packing companies in various counties which box, can, and pack fruit purchased from other counties, and designate the fruit so packed under such company's name, which business would be affected by the vague penal provisions of the present bill, although the acts of such companies might be devoid of fraudulent intent, such a law would tend to restrict the operations of such companies to the limits of their own counties, and prevent their purchase of fruit from outside counties.

If a proper bill be drawn to redress the evil intended to be guarded against, it will not meet with my disapproval. I would suggest, however, in the framing of such bill, that the offense be punished as in the case of ordinary misdemeanors, with the usual maximum penalty, but fixing no minimum penalty.

HENRY T. GAGE,
Governor of the State of California.

SPECIAL ORDER SET.

On motion of Senator Currier, consideration of Governor's veto to Senate Bill No. 185 was made special order for Saturday, March 2, 1901, at three o'clock and thirty minutes P. M.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR—(RESUMED).

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
SACRAMENTO, March 1, 1901. }

To the Senate of the State of California:

I herewith return to your honorable body without my approval, Senate Bill No. 122, entitled "An Act amending Section 1457 of the Penal Code of the State of California, providing that the defendant in a criminal action must be discharged upon the payment of his fine, and providing for the disposal of the fine paid, and amending Section 1570 of the Penal Code of the State of California, relative to the disposition of fines and forfeitures collected by any court in the State of California."

This bill is almost literally the same as Assembly Bill No. 167, previously approved by me; hence, its approval would not only serve no useful purpose, but would encumber the Penal Code with duplicate sections.

HENRY T. GAGE,
Governor of the State of California.

To the HON. C. M. BELSHAW, Senator representing Senatorial District No. 11:

DEAR SIR: A bill was presented in the Legislature at Sacramento by Senator Nelson, of San Francisco, on or about January 29, 1901, in relation to the collection of a license tax on the business of selling liquors. The provisions of this bill are such (especially Sections 3 and 4) that if passed by the Legislature each city and county in the State will be handed over into the power of one man in each of these communities, viz: the tax collector. To pass such a measure, irrespective of the sentiments of these several communities on the question of license or no license, would be, we consider, both un-American and unjust. We, therefore, your constituents, request that you vote against this bill, to the end it may not become a law.

PETITIONS.

The following petitions were presented by Senator Tyrrell of Nevada, and ordered printed in the Journal:

To the HON. J. R. TYRRELL, Senator representing Senatorial District No. 3:

DEAR SIR: A bill was presented in the Legislature at Sacramento by Senator Nelson of San Francisco, on or about January 29, 1901, in relation to the collection of a license tax on the business of selling liquors. The provisions of this bill are such (especially Sections 3 and 4) that, if passed by the Legislature, each city and county in the State will be handed over into the power of one man in each of these communities, viz: the tax collector. To pass such a measure, irrespective of the sentiments of these several communities on the question of license or no license, would be, we consider, both un-American and unjust. We, therefore, your constituents, request that you vote against this bill, to the end it may not become a law.

W. Angwin, B. F. Snell, E. J. Morgan, James Andrew, John Dellridge, C. R. Murchie, G. W. Baldwin, B. E. Baldwin, James Bovey, John H. Polkinghorn (of Nevada City), and 217 more names.

Also:

NEVADA CITY, CAL., February 18, 1901.

To Mr. J. R. TYRRELL, Sacramento, Cal.:

DEAR SIR: At a meeting of Laurel Parlor No. 6, N. D. G. W., a resolution was unanimously adopted favoring legislation looking to the preservation of the redwood forests of California, which have added fame to State pride and protection.

We, the committee appointed by the parlor, most earnestly ask your hearty coöperation and support, in the name of every member of the parlor, of measures presented for the creation of a California Redwood Park.

You, as the representative of the people of this district, will confer an everlasting favor by lending your aid and influence in having the bill passed and signed.

Very truly,

MRS. BELLE DOUGLASS.
MRS. J. V. SNYDER.
MISS MINNIE BRAND.

COMMUNICATION.

The following communication, addressed to the President of the Senate, was received and read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

LOS ANGELES, CAL., February 28, 1901.

To HON. JACOB H. NEFF, President of Senate, Sacramento, Cal.:

DEAR SIR: Herewith is inclosed a copy of a memorial presented to and adopted by a general bar meeting held in this city this February 28, 1901, in honor of the life and character of the late Stephen Mallory White, formerly a State Senator and Lieutenant-Governor of the State of California.

These resolutions are sent to you as the presiding officer of the Senate, in pursuance of the recommendation of the memorial committee, authorized by the vote of the bar meeting.

Yours respectfully,

R. H. F. VARIEL,
President Los Angeles Bar Meeting.

Attest: EDWIN A. MESERVE,
Secretary Los Angeles Bar Meeting.

IN MEMORIAM.

The symbol of the broken column, typifying the untimely death of a strong man, stricken down in the zenith of his power and fame, in the midst of his splendid usefulness, was never more strikingly applicable than in the death of the distinguished man who has just passed away.

Never since the golden sun of the Occident flamed bright and beckoning upon the flag of our country has any of her notable sons attained to the commanding eminence which is with common thought accorded to the character and achievements of Stephen Mallory White.

The stock from which he sprung has produced many eminent men. California, too, can boast of a long line of illustrious dead. But none of these may justly claim a better right than he to enduring fame—to have his name emblazoned in letters of ineffaceable light upon the very foundations of the Capitol itself. And in our State Pantheon, his must ever be an honored place.

Born and reared not in poverty, and yet with none of the adventitious aids of fortune or of inherited wealth or position, he achieved—by force of his indomitable genius and his rugged, masterful strength of character, and within those early years when many men of genius are yet struggling for recognition—an honorable career that well may challenge the admiration of the world.

We first behold him a young attorney at this bar, where he took his modest place, an untried, unknown, unheralded man, in April, 1875. Not long did he remain obscure, for soon we behold him discharging, with brilliant ability and success, the duties of District Attorney of this county.

And then a new star rose rapidly in the West.

Richly endowed with all those gifts which go to make the successful lawyer, the great orator, he sought with the most untiring diligence and effort, and the most exhaustive labor, to perfect his superb powers. And soon he became known as a finished lawyer, a powerful advocate, a forensic gladiator, of the first ability.

We next behold him valiantly battling, with not less marked distinction, on the uncertain field of politics; and successively he rose to preside over a State and then a National convention of his party, to be a State Senator, a Lieutenant-Governor, and then a Senator of the United States.

In all these large public relations, he always rose to the demands of every occasion, and never failed to wield a powerful influence for what was right and just, according to his own convictions; and even from his opponents he always commanded the most profound attention and respect.

His most eminent characteristic lay in his power to influence deliberative bodies, and he reached the highest expression of this great gift during his career in the United States Senate. His record there is part of the imperishable history of that illustrious body, and not soon will the renown which he there achieved be covered by the silence of oblivion.

In politics he early espoused the Democratic faith, and was always loyal to his professions.

His views upon great national questions, however, were never unduly colored by partisan prejudice, but were rather tempered by a wise and calm conservatism that always gave his counsel great weight. On more than one occasion he led a forlorn hope to certain defeat rather than surrender his convictions. He was the friend of the people in his endeavors to preserve unimpaired the purity of the ballot and to compel the practice of clean methods in politics and legislation. While he was nowise hostile to, or prejudiced against, organized capital or wealth in any form, nevertheless he firmly believed above all things in the supremacy of the law, and the right of the people to govern themselves according to the will of the majority when constitutionally expressed, and especially in the right of every citizen to pursue his own true and substantial happiness so far as consistent with the equal and just rights of others before the law. He was the steadfast foe of fraud, force, and violence, in whatever guise presented—whether expressed through the machinations of the political machine or the corrupt or insidious use of wealth or place, or whether manifested through what he considered the insolent aggressions of great corporate influence or the unjustifiable extensions of the large powers of government.

As an orator at the bar, before a jury, on the stump, before a convention, or in the halls of legislation, he was matchless—irresistible. With a fine-toned, sympathetic, far-reaching voice that ever rang true and sincere, and speaking ever from profound convictions that were the result of earnest thought and study, he always commanded large and appreciative audiences.

He was a man of great public spirit, and he believed that public office was a public trust; and a leading thought with him always, in every public station, and, indeed, throughout his private career, was the general welfare of the public. Not soon will the people of the West find another such champion to speak for them, or who will pour forth the rich treasures of his mind in such unstinted measure, or with such force or power, or such disregard of self.

But while we may appropriately dwell with admiration upon those striking qualities which enabled him to achieve success on the larger fields of action, it is of more consequence for us to record that our departed brother was, above all, a man of the highest integrity and honor in all the relations of life. He never stooped to win success, place, or power by any indirection. He never corrupted, and he was incorruptible. He was sunny, genial, affable, approachable—a loyal, generous friend; a courteous, honorable foe.

In his intercourse with his brethren of the bar he was manly, kind, and considerate. Before the court he was modest and courteous, but withal marked by a dignity that stamped him with the seal of greatness. He always sought to be right, he always reasoned honestly, and never did he willfully pervert his great powers before either judge or jury in the endeavor to deceive the one or mislead the other that injustice or wrong might knowingly be done.

It is to be deplored that more complete transcripts of his many great speeches have not been preserved. What was greatest in them could not be written, and has passed away with the man. But they are not forgotten, and the recollection of their striking brilliance will long be cherished and preserved—with the fragrant memory of his many virtues as lawyer and man, as citizen and friend—as among the most valued traditions of this bar.

The same fine spirit of duty, chivalry, and devotion which marked his public and professional career adorned his private life and beautified his domestic relations.

To his family he leaves the priceless memory of his devotion and protection; to his friends, the recollection of his loyalty and truth; to his brethren of the bar, an example of professional achievement worthy of all imitation; to his home and country the heritage of many good works wrought in their behalf; and to all struggling, ambitious young men everywhere, he leaves the record of a career which unmistakably demonstrates the mighty truth that a deserving, capable man may yet confidently aspire in this age, mercenary though it be, and that he can surely win the highest professional and political distinction without departing from the path of rectitude or the practice of common honesty.

To use his own last words:

"The evidence is all in, the case is submitted."

Great lawyer, great man, great citizen, great soul, farewell!

Wherefore, brethren of the bar of Los Angeles, your committee appointed in General Bar Meeting assembled, desiring only to express a true estimate of the character and worth of our departed brother, without attempting any detailed review of the events of his notable life-work, have prepared this memorial and submit it for your approval, with the suggestion that it be further noted so as to be a part of this record:

That our departed brother, Stephen Mallory White, was born January 19, 1853, at San Francisco, State of California, and that he died February 21, 1901, in the City of Los Angeles.

We recommend that an engrossed and signed copy of this memorial be furnished to his family and to his mother, that copies be given to the press, and that a copy be presented to each of the Federal and Superior courts in this city by members of the bar, to be selected by your honorable body, with the request that it be transcribed at length upon the minutes; and that copies be furnished to the State Supreme Court, the State Senate, and to the Senate of the United States.

READING OF JOURNAL.

The Journal of Tuesday, March 5, 1901, was read.

APPROVAL OF JOURNAL.

The Journal of Friday, March 1, 1901, having been previously read and corrected, was approved.

PETITION.

The following petition was presented by Senator Flint, and ordered printed in the Journal:

HOLLISTER, March 5, 1901.

To the Senate of the State of California:

WHEREAS, The committee appointed by the Senate at the thirty-second session of the Legislature to make an examination of State institutions, in referring to the Board of State Harbor Commissioners, report: "There is no occasion whatever for a superintendent of the (ferry) building, except to give some one a place, the law placing the superintendency of that building in the Chief Wharfinger"; and

WHEREAS, The commission now has a man on its payroll at $100 per month as superintendent of the ferry building; and

WHEREAS, This Senate report further says: "There is no occasion for the employment of any police force by the Harbor Commission in the City of San Francisco, as it is the duty of the city and its police department to take care of all property within the city, and there is no authority of law and no necessity, so far as your committee can learn, for the maintenance of any such force"; and

WHEREAS, The commission now has in its employ two policemen at $75 per month; and

WHEREAS, Said report further says: "Watchmen are maintained upon the wharves, which is an unnecessary expense, the claim being made that because the State does not insure its property, it becomes necessary to employ watchmen to guard it." Your committee is of the opinion that there is nothing substantial in this claim. On all the wharves occupied to any great extent by transportation companies, they themselves keep a watchman for the protection of their own property, and certainly the State has no occasion to keep one itself under such circumstances, and there is no occasion for the employment of these watchmen that your committee is advised of; and

WHEREAS, The commission now employs three watchmen at a salary of $75 per month; and

WHEREAS, Howard C. Holmes, Chief Engineer of the commission, in his report to the board for the two fiscal years ending June 30, 1900, says: "In the years 1899 and 1900 the number of cars switched on the Belt Railroad were 48,600, at an actual cost of about $1.25 per car, or at a loss of fifty cents per car for every car switched," thus showing a loss of over $12,000 per annum in this one item alone; and

WHEREAS, Grave charges of extravagance and unbusiness-like methods of management have been preferred against the Board of State Harbor Commissioners of San Francisco, not alone by the public press, but by reputable citizens, and the Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco; therefore, be it

Resolved by Hollister Grange, No. 319, of the Order of Patrons of Husbandry, That we, the members of said grange, individually as taxpayers and citizens, and collectively as an organization, having the welfare of our State, and especially the agricultural interests thereof, at heart, do most earnestly, yet respectfully, request the Legislature of California at its present session to take some action looking towards the thorough and impartial investigation of the management of said commission, and we would suggest that a hold-over committee be appointed for this purpose, in order that it may make a complete examination of the affairs of the commission and report to the next session of the Legislature. And we would suggest to the Legislature the advisability, in case such a committee is appointed, of placing men thereon of known integrity and ability (and we believe there are such among even our much abused legislators), for, we believe, if an attempt is made to whitewash or smother this thing, the day will come when it will "smell to high heaven" and be investigated by "the people," and when that day does come, woe betide the men and party who attempt to smother it; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution, duly signed by the secretary of this grange, stamped with the seal thereof, and countersigned by the master, be forwarded to Senator Thomas Flint, Jr., our representative in the State Legislature at Sacramento, with the request that he lay this matter before the Legislature and urge its investigation; and be it further

Resolved, That every subordinate grange in California be asked to urge their representatives in the Legislature to take similar action, inasmuch as this is a matter that touches the pockets of every producer in the State.

BATES DeHART, Master.
Mrs. L. THYSEN, Secretary.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE.

The following report of special committee was received and read:

SENATE CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, March 6, 1901.

To the Senate of the State of California:

Your special committee, appointed as per resolution of the Senate adopted February 20, 1901, beg leave to submit the following:

Your committee visited the State Hospital at Ukiah on February 24, 1901, and made a thorough inspection of the building and grounds constituting the same, and found the same in excellent condition in each and every department. The management of the institution is particularly desirous of an appropriation at the hands of the present Legislature to enable it to purchase a certain tract of land consisting of 120 acres adjoining the State's present holdings in the vicinity, to be used for the purpose of satisfactorily and safely disposing of the sewage of the hospital. The estimated cost of the land in question is $15,000, and your committee recommends that this purchase be made for the purpose referred to. Your committee also favors an appropriation of about $7,000 for the installation and equipment of an electric light and power plant, which in our opinion is very much needed by the hospital management. Your committee further favors an appropriation at this time for a needed hall to be used for dancing and other entertainment purposes by the patients in the institution, such an auxiliary being at present a part of the equipment of every other State hospital in California.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

To the HON. R. T. DEVLIN, Senator representing Senatorial District No. 13:

DEAR SIR: A bill was presented in the Legislature at Sacramento by Senator Nelson of San Francisco, on or about January 29, 1901, in relation to the collection of a license tax on the business of selling liquors. The provisions of this bill are such (especially Sections 3 and 4) that if passed by the Legislature each city and county in the State will be handed over into the power of one man in each of these communities, viz: the tax collector. To pass such a measure, irrespective of the sentiments of these several communities on the question of license or no license, would be, we consider, both un-American and unjust. We, therefore, your constituents, request that you vote against this bill, to the end that it may not become a law.

Jas. Gibson, Stephen E. Kieffer, J. E. Holst, E. L. Cosby, T. C. Fitch, S. I. Osgood, Joseph Broadley, C. H. Liddall, J. MacBride, Geo. F. Ingraham, and thirty-nine others (of Fair Oaks, Cal.).
